EXPERTS TELL HOW TO GET RESULTS

Point Out That Dry-Farming Is Opportunity State Cannot Afford to Miss.

PLANT CROPS TO PROVE IT

Speakers Claim This Argument Is One That Will Convince Most Skeptical.

"You are the worst bunch of skeptics here in Colorado Springs I've ever seen.

"The International Dry Farming congress offers you the biggest opportunity for an immediate income of millions of dollars you have ever had here.

"If you'll get together and boost, you can have 10,000 immigrants settled in El Paso county in the near future, and add $3,500,000 yearly to the income of your city thereby.

"Tell every banker, every merchant, every traveling man, every child and every citizen between here and the Kansas line that you'll back them in dry farming, and do it now. Don't miss this opportunity!"

The above are a few of the hot shot fired at the big dry farming meeting in Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Antlers hotel last night by Prof. H. M. Cottrell, commissioner of agriculture of the Rock Island lines in Colorado, in a rousing speech in which he briefly outlined the possibilities of dry farming in this county, in particular.

Professor Cottrell's speech was one of several in which dry farming was discussed in a way to make converts, both in theory and practice. Those who spoke were Tom F. Shartroth, Prof. B. C. Tilt, dry farming expert at Worland, Wyo., G. W. Martin of the Rock Island lines, John T. Burns, secretary of the Dry Farming congress, and C. B. Schmidt of the Rock Island lines.

Governor a Convert.

Governor Shartroth dwelt upon his own personal experiences with regard to dry farming. He told how he had not believed in it until very recently, and that he is now convinced that it is the salvation of the eastern part of the state. He drew an alluring picture of the future greatness of Colorado if it attacked the problem of the settlement of its semiarid lands the right way.

Professor Cottrell spoke in part as follows:

"I formerly worked to get the farmers of western Kansas to take up this idea of the proper cultivation of their lands. I was told that I was wasting time, I persevered, and when I was in that same section the other day I found the farmers who had been called the pioneers in the state, riding around in their automobiles. That is merely an instance.

"If we go at this thing right, I predict that most of us sitting here today will live to see eastern Colorado as thickly settled as Iowa is now. Take this crop of milo for instance. One man, with only two rains during the growing season, raised a crop of it averaging 30 bushels to the acre. It has a nutritive value only 10 per cent less than corn, and it can be converted into pork readily, and you can average 400 pounds of pork raised from an average yield of an acre of milo.

Some Present Opportunities.

"You have the best dairy country in the world right at your doors, and you pass it by. Milk products worth $6,000,000 were shipped into this state from Kansas and Nebraska last year, which might just as well have been raised at home. You could raise that amount of dairy products in this county alone if you would. These are some of your present opportunities.

"Take potatoes for instance. Up in

Springs May Get National Meeting Master Printers

That Colorado Springs or some city in this vicinity may be awarded the 1911 national convention of the United Typothetae of America, next fall, is the latest word received here. The information is contained in a letter to the employing printers of the city received yesterday. Should such a convention be brought to this region, it would mean in the neighborhood of 2,000 additional visitors, as this is the number of delegates it is estimated will attend the next national convention of the organization.

The letter was written by Franklin W. Heath of Philadelphia, who is secretary of the Typothetae. In it he says: "There is a possibility that our next national convention may be held not a great distance from Colorado Springs." While this is not a direct statement that the convention will be held here, local printers are of the opinion that it is a hint that some place either in the Pikes Peak region or Denver, is being considered. The question of selecting a meeting place, as well as the date for the convention, is in the hands of a comparatively small committee.

Look for Quiet Place.

Unlike most conventions, that of the Typothetae does not seek some large and busy city. The members, all of whom are business men, desire to gather in some quiet place, where they can secure ample and comfortable accommodations, and spend all their time in discussing subjects of interest to their organization. Another thing about the convention is that the secretary of each local is a delegate to the national gathering, and the locals pay the expenses, so that there is no bonus to be raised by the city securing the meeting.

It is understood that the printers will take steps to have a formal invitation extended to the national body to meet here, through the Chamber of Commerce. It is believed that should the convention be brought here, it will be due in a large measure to the good impression of the city gained by Franklin W. Heath when he was a guest here a short time ago.

A meeting of the master printers of this city was held last Friday and steps were taken for the organization of a chapel of the Typothetae. The branch body will be formed as soon as several prominent printers return from eastern trips.

15 AMERICANS SHOT BELIEF IN EL PASO

Fate of Men Captured in Casas Grandes Battle Cannot Be Learned.

EL PASO, March 13.—That the 15 Americans taken prisoners by the Mexican federal troops at the battle of Casas Grandes have been shot is the belief expressed in El Paso tonight.

Efforts to reach the military authorities of the town have failed. Madero, under whom the men fought, is still within a few miles of the place, but, according to his confidential messages sent out by couriers here, he has been unable to learn the fate of his men.

Madero has been asked to send a roster of the men's names, but the courier who took this message has not yet returned. Casas Grandes is 150 miles from El Paso and the travel is by foot.

A military authority at Juarez tonight refused to comment on the fate of the Americans. Asked whether a report would not be sent to Juarez if the men had been executed, he replied it was not customary for Mexican officers to disseminate among those who had taken up arms against the government.

Hope for the safety of the men is held here because of the character of Colonel Cuellar, the federal officer, who suddenly appeared during the battle and caused the rout of the insurrectos. Colonel Cuellar was former military secretary to President Diaz, and is known as a humane man. His friends believe he would hesitate before executing Americans.

Mexico's Drastic War Measure Goes Into Effect Soon

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—Mexico's proposed war measure which has attracted worldwide attention—the bill to suspend certain conceded personal rights under specified circumstances—was approved today by the permanent committee of congress in the form as drafted by the department of the interior. Following the usual course of such bills, it will be given its second reading tomorrow and on Thursday final discussion.

That it will become a law there is practically no doubt since there was no dissenting vote at the session today.

Apparently taking it for granted that the bill will become a law the war department has already made its plans for co-operation. The guards along public highways and railways will be doubled, according to General Manuel Colso, minister of war.

STATE CAPITOL FARCE GETS WORSE

Housemaids Now Included in Eight-Hour Bill Before Senate Solons.

PROGRESSIVE BILLS KILLED

Headless Ballot and Campaign Contribution Measures Artistically Strangled.

DENVER, Colo., March 13. The woman's eight-hour bill, fathered by Senator Gorman, was the subject of debate in the senate throughout the day and was still pending when adjournment was taken.

Senator Cassaday attempted to summarily dispose of the measure by having the enacting clause stricken out, but his motion to kill it was lost. Senator Cooke offered an amendment, which was accepted by the author of the bill, to include domestic servants, telephone operators and all women employed in offices and on ranches.

Previous to this an attempt had been made to have all women working in whatever capacity included, but this move was not looked upon as serious.

Senator Carpenter appealed to the senate to exempt women working in canning factories from the measure, explaining that such establishments could not exist under such a law for the reason that the daily work could not be cleaned up in eight hours and the consequent loss would be great.

Headless Ballot Killed.

The senate today refused to demand a report from the judiciary committee on the headless ballot bill. It is said by many that this refusal kills the measure.

Senator Skinner offered a motion demanding a report from the committee no later than March 15 but it failed of adoption 21 to 13.

The house today adopted the report of the judiciary committee recommending adverse action on Governor Shafroth's campaign contribution bill. The judiciary committee reported that such a law was unnecessary at this time. This was the death knell of the measure.

Mourning's bill pensioning the members of paid fire departments and the bill appropriating $50,000 for the protection of Colorado's water rights were both passed on second reading. The latter measure provides for a commission of five, three to be appointed by the senate and two by the house, to expend the money.

That the senate measure concerning contributions will meet a similar fate as the house measure seems certain. Today the senate judiciary committee reported back the bill with amendments empowering all state and county chairmen of political parties to collect funds the same as state and county chairmen. This practically places no limit on the amount of money to be accumulated in party treasuries for the reason that the district chairmen are so numerous congressional, judicial, senatorial and representative.

Senatorial Vote.

Rep. Skinner, who before has voted for Adams, changed to Ward in today's senatorial ballot. Three pairs between Adams and Speer were also announced. The vote:

Democrats: Adams, 14; Speer, 25; Thomas, 6; Shafroth, 1; Maupin, 1; Martin, 2; O'Donnell, 4; Ward, 6; Ammons, 1.

Republicans: Nalle, 12; Goudy, 7; Dawson, 3; Roof, 1; McCreery, 3; Waterman, 3.

DENVER MAN SHOT BY WIFE AFTER QUARREL

DENVER, March 13.—Edna McLennan, an employe of a department store, is tonight perhaps fatally wounded at St. Joseph's hospital, the result of an argument with his wife over the matter of allowing a door in their house to remain open.

McLennan slapped his wife and called her a name, according to her statement. She secured a revolver from under a pillow on their bed and shot him in the breast.

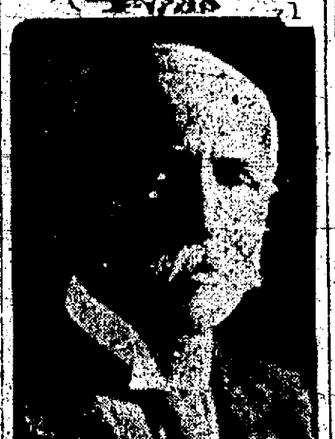

McLennan was taken to the hospital, bleeding internally. His wife was allowed to accompany him and has not been arrested. The police say they will permit her to remain with her husband until a change in his condition occurs.

WRIGHT HELD FOR DEATH OF SCHUCH

DENVER, March 13.—The coroner's jury investigating the death of Philip Schuch, Jr., found dead in his room, today, held Dr. C. Wright responsible. The jury found that Schuch's death was caused by arsenic poisoning and that the poison was administered in whisky. Leo Neujar, arrested with Wright, was released.

SUPREME COURT TAKES RECESS ON MARCH 20

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The supreme court of the United States announced today that it would recess until April 3 after delivering opinions on next Monday, March 20.

Senor Jose Yves Limantour, Mexican minister of finance, who it is said, has been called back from Europe to become the chief adviser of President Diaz. Limantour is understood to be Diaz' choice as his successor in the presidency.

OPEN CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION

DRY FARMING SPECIAL LEAVES TODAY.

To Hold Meetings in 15 Towns on Line of Rock Island.

Many Experts on Board.

The International Dry Farming special of nine cars, will pull out at 11:30 this morning for a three days tour of eastern Colorado, as the beginning of an extended campaign of education, which will cover the semiarid districts of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico between now and the first of June. The train is furnished by the Rock Island for the purpose of introducing the Dry Farming congress, which is to be held in Colorado Springs the week of October 16 and, at the same time, to impress upon the dry farmers the need for planting drouth resistant crops.

In the party on board the special will be some of the greatest American experts in dry farming, the list including the following named:

Many Experts in Party.

Dr. W. T. Cooke, who has charge of dry farm experiments for the state of Wyoming; Professor B. C. Buffum, former director of the Wyoming experiment station and known the world over for his work in seed breeding for the semiarid districts; J. E. Payne, dry farming expert connected with the Colorado State experiment station; Professor Alvin Keyser, agronomist of Colorado Agricultural college, Fort Collins; Professor C. P. Gillette, director of the Colorado experiment station; Professor T. M. Netherton, principal of the school of agriculture, Fort Collins.

Representing the Rock Island there will be George W. Martin, general agent for Colorado; H. M. Cottrell, commissioner of agriculture; C. B. Schmidt, commissioner of immigration; Alvin T. Steinel, editor of the Southwest Trail; Superintendent Putt and others.

Big Springs Delegation.

Colorado Springs men who will accompany the train are: Secretary John T. Burns, A. W. Henderson, Dr. A. C. Magruder, J. G. Dern, J. J. Eubank, F. F. Wulff, F. A. Sperry, Clarence Underhill, John Taggert, E. J. Eaton, John Lennox, H. Hutchinson, county commissioner, and Mayor Avery.

The Denver commercial bodies will be represented by the following named: L. B. Bridaham, president of the Colorado Traffic club; T. E. Williams, president of the Colorado Manufacturers association; W. W. Griswold, president of the Plattner Implement company; H. M. Stoll, manager of the Joslin Dry Goods company; W. C. Howard, manager of the Dupont Powder company; F. W. Malcham, assistant manager Spratlen-Anderson Mercantile company; C. G. McKenna, vice president of the O'Fallon Supply company; C. M. Immel, capitalist.

Pueblo is sending as representatives, W. D. Keene, a dry farming expert; A. R. Pierce and several representatives from the Commercial club.

In addition to these, all the Colorado Springs, Denver and Pueblo newspapers will have special correspondents on the train.

PAVE THE PATH TO WORLD PEACE

England and U. S. Should Join Hands, Says British Foreign Secretary.

PRAISES TAFT'S PROPOSAL

Arbitration Pact Would Be of Momentous Import Speech Creates Sensation.

LONDON, March 13.—Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, leading the house of commons tonight in Premier Asquith's absence, made an important pronouncement on the government's naval policy.

Reginald McKenna, first lord of the admiralty, in defense of his estimates explained that in 1914 Great Britain would have 30 and German 21 dreadnoughts, not, he said, an unreasonable margin. The size of the British navy, he added, practically was governed by that of Germany, and unless some change occurred in the German naval law, this year would be the high water mark in the British estimates.

Secretary Grey, affirming Mr. McKenna's statements, emphasized the cordiality of Great Britain's foreign relations and his earnest desire that nothing should disturb these friendships, especially with Germany.

He then dealt with the difficulties to be encountered in the disarmament discussion and pointed out that it was the most civilized nations that spent the most in armaments, asserting that unless the mischief was brought home to men's feelings as well as to their minds, the growth of armaments must in the long run break civilization down.

Some thought, the secretary continued, that it would end in war. He thought more likely it would end in international revolution. Anyway the rivalry would not be stopped by any single nation dropping out of the race.

Although great Britain had a strong navy, her army was small and an agreement with Germany needed careful handling. He was hopeful, however, that something might be done.

Praises Taft's Stand.

Any real limitation of armaments, he declared, must depend on nations learning, like individuals, to resort to law instead of to arms. He referred to President Taft's arbitration speech as bold, courageous and pregnant with consequences, and said:

"Such a statement ought not to go without response. We should be delighted to have such a proposal made to us. We should feel that it was something so momentous and so far-reaching in its possible consequences that it would require not only the signature of both governments, but the deliberate and decided sanction of parliament. That I believe would be given."

Sir Edward's speech was loudly cheered and it created a deep impression.

When he referred to the possibility of the adoption of President Taft's proposal, he was listened to in tense silence. If, he said, two of the greatest nations should thus make it clear that under no circumstances were they to go to war again, the effect of their example on the world must have beneficent influences.

Suggests Defensive Alliance.

Nations entering an agreement, continued the secretary, might be exposed to attack by a third nation. This probably would lead to their making another agreement to join each other in any case of quarrel with a third power, in which arbitration was refused.

In entering an agreement of this kind, said Sir Edward, "there would be risks, and you must be prepared for some sacrifice of national pride. I know that to produce such changes public opinion must reach very high ideals, higher than some think possible, but men's minds are working in this direction, and history affords instances of reaching such an ideal point. It was so in the case of slavery when the United States rose up, not counting the cost in blood or money, or the risk of national existence."

In conclusion the secretary said: "The general adoption of such a system might leave some armies and navies still in existence, but they would remain, not in rivalry, but as the worlds police."

Utopian as his hopes might seem to some, he believed he would live to see progress toward their realization.

"Nations," he said, in grave preroration, "are in bondage to army and navy expenditures. May the time come soon when they realize that law is a better remedy than force."

The speech was too late for comment in the morning newspapers, but it created sensational comment in the lobbies.

72 N. G. C. OFFICERS GOING TO THE FRONT

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The enthusiasm of the officers of the militia of the states and territories over the opportunity for field experience in the military operations in the southern border states continues unabated. Since Saturday General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, has received acceptances from 705 militia officers of the invitation to join the "maneuver division" at San Antonio, making a total of 1,958 acceptances. The officers accepting include 72 from Colorado.

WOMEN ARE READY TO DO THEIR PART

Those Interested in Dry Farming Invited to Visit Special Train This Morning.

All women of this city interested in the subject are invited to visit the special demonstration train of the Dry Farming congress which will be at the Rio Grande station this morning. There will be informal talks from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock on subjects relating to the first International Congress of Farm Women which will be held here at the same time as the International Dry Farming Congress in the fall.

Mrs. Bennett, wife of Professor E. R. Bennett of the horticultural department of the State Agricultural college, will speak on general hygienics, home nursing and what to do in a surgical emergency, and also of home remedies; Mrs. Cottrell, wife of H. M. Cottrell, the agricultural commissioner of the Rock Island railroad, will speak on domestic science and other kindred topics, and Mrs. Burns, wife of secretary John T. Burns of the Dry Farming congress will tell of the work outlined for the women's congress.

Last evening a few ladies met Mrs. Cottrell and Mrs. Bennett, socially, at the Antlers and after dining together in one of the smaller rooms adjoining the banquet room, listened to the speakers of the evening. Included were Mrs. John Lennox, Mrs. William K. Argo, Mrs. William W. Williamson, Mrs. Alva W. Henderson, Mrs. John T. Burns, Mrs. Ella Celeste Adams and Miss Briggs.

SMALL MINE OWNER LOSES BY NEW LAW

Cannot Ship Less Than $1,000 to Mint Even Then Gets No Cash.

DENVER, March 13.—Under a law passed in the last hours of the recent Congress all the United States mints, including that in Denver, may stop the coming of gold, perhaps for several years, according to Congressman A. W. Rucker, who has just returned from Washington.

A law was rushed through Congress in the last few hours of the session," said he, "which will close our mint and injure the small mine owner.

"The law provides that the mints shall not coin gold for the present, but shall accept gold in $1,000 deliveries, in return for which certificates will be issued. That law means that the man who owns a small gold mine must wait until he has accumulated $1,000 before he can take his bullion or his gold dust to the mint. In the meantime he has a pay roll and other expenses to meet. But when he takes the bullion he does not receive money in return. He receives an acknowledgement that he has that much gold stored with the government.

"Under the law only the Philadelphia and San Francisco mints can issue these certificates. The Denver mint can receive the bullion, but the certificate must come from San Francisco.

"It is a bad law, but was passed at the suggestion of the treasury department, which wishes to reduce the expenses of operating the mints. Under the law no gold will be coined in Denver, and probably the mint will be out of commission for a long time. The treasury department declares there is no shortage of gold in America."

RUSSIA SENDS CHINA ANOTHER ULTIMATUM

ST. PETERSBURG, March 13.—Russia has sent an ultimatum to China insisting upon a closer adherence to the provisions of the treaty of 1881, which has been the subject of negotiations between the two countries for several weeks. The Russian occupation corps is within a hundred miles of the frontier and marching on Kulja.

CORPORATE TAX PROVISION UPHELD

Supreme Court Holds Government May Levy on Business of Corporations.

ALL THE JUSTICES CONCUR

Adverse Ruling Would Have Compelled Return of $27,000,000 Already Collected.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—In a unanimous opinion the supreme court of the United States today held that the corporation tax provisions for the Payne-Aldrich tariff act were constitutional. Thus ended a controversy waged almost continuously since President Taft first suggested their enactment to Congress.

The decision relieves the federal government from an embarrassing situation. Had the law been declared unconstitutional the government would have had to return to 262,490 corporations, an aggregate of more than $27,000,000 paid by them into the federal treasury by operation of the law and an issue of government bonds probably would have been found necessary. According to the commissioner of internal revenue there were at the end of the last fiscal year, 262,490 taxable corporations on the lists of the internal revenue bureau. These corporations had a capital stock represented by $52,371,626,752, their bonded and other indebtedness was $21,885,852,696, and their net income was $5,159,461,101.

The opinion was announced by Justice Day, appointed to the supreme court from Ohio in 1903. It was an elaborate treatment of the subject. About half an hour was spent by the justice in orally explaining to the bar the court's position, the printed opinion being used as a basis for the remarks.

Not a Direct Tax.

The justice first determined that the tax was just what it claimed to be in the act, namely, an excise tax on the doing of corporate business, and not a direct tax on the ownership of property. With that point decided, the justice took up the objections urged against the tax as an excise.

Finally he interpreted the law so as to apply to real estate companies as the so-called public service corporations, but not to "real estate trusts."

Practically all of the more than $27,000,000 assessed for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, on corporations in the United States, has been paid into the treasury. The exact amount received to February 1, 1911, the latest date for which precise figures are available, was $27,108,183. The amount assessed last year was $27,130,904. Added to this were penalties amounting to about $100,000 for failure to pay the tax when due.

What the tax will amount to this year, the commissioner of internal revenue is not yet able to determine. All reports from corporations were due March 1, and it is thought that practically all of them have been received. But work has just been begun on figuring out the assessments.

On or before June 1 these figures will be in the hands of the 67 internal revenue collectors throughout the country, who will immediately notify the corporations in their district of the amount they owe the government for the privilege of doing business. Taxes not paid by July 1 will have an added penalty of 5 per cent and interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month for each month they remain unpaid.

Near the outset of the opinion, as it

WASHINGTON BUSY SMOOTHING RUFFLED MEXICAN FEATHERS

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Mexican ambassador and the Mexican minister of finance, both of whom are at present in this city, received assurances from Washington tonight which convinced them there is sincere co-operation between the administration of President Taft and that of President Diaz. It is not professed that all tension has been relieved and while American troops remain in force on the Mexican border, it is admitted some tension will continue, but apprehension was appreciably lessened by two pieces of news.

First in importance was a long telegram to Ambassador de la Barra from the state department announcing that the American warships assigned to patrol duty on the Pacific and Gulf coasts of Mexico had been ordered to call at Mexican ports only for coal and then to withdraw promptly. This action is reassuring to Senor Limantour, the minister of finance. In a recent interview he said he could only consider the presence of American men of war in Mexican waters so far distant from their base at Galveston as part of an unnecessary effort to impress on Mexico the power of the United States.

His personal protest was promptly followed by official representations and tonight he expressed himself as very much gratified that the request had been so promptly granted.

Ambassador de la Barra added that the action was highly satisfactory to his government and that perfect understanding exists between the two governments regarding the matter.

The second development was the publication of an authorized interview with Jacob M. Dickinson, the secretary of war, in which he denied that this government contemplated intervention or that orders had been issued to mobilize a second army corps on the frontier. A rumor to that effect originating in Galveston was current here, but General Leonard Wood in Washington added his denials to those of Secretary Dickinson.

Regarding the telegram from Washington, Ambassador de la Barra said it contained assurances that President Taft wished to reiterate the expressions of good feeling and friendship on the part of the United States government toward the Mexican government which he expressed to the Mexican ambassador at a recent interview."

CORPORATION TAX

appears in printed form, is the statement that the tax is imposed not upon the franchises of the corporations irrespective of their use in business nor upon the property of the corporation but upon the doing of corporate or insurance business and with respect to the carrying on thereof a sum equivalent to one percentum of the entire net income over and above 5,000 dollars received from all sources during the year; that is when imposed in this manner a tax upon the doing of business with advantages which inhere in the pecularities of corporate or joint stock organization of the character described.

As the latter organizations share many benefits of corporate organization it may be described generally as a tax upon the doing of business in a corporate capacity.

"This tax it is expressly stated is to be equivalent to one percentum of the entire net income over and above $5,000 received from all sources during the year—this is the measure of the tax explicitly adopted by the statute.

"The income is not limited to such as is received from property used in the business, strictly speaking but is expressly declared to be on the entire net income above $5,000 from all sources, excluding the amounts received as dividends on stock in other corporations, joint stock companies, or associations or insurance companies also subject to the tax.

"In other words, the tax is imposed on the doing of business of the character described and the measure of the tax is to be the income with the deduction stated received not only from property used in business but from every source.

Criminal Folly, Roosevelt Says, Not to Fortify Panama Canal

DALLAS, Tex., March 13.—"Failure to fortify the Panama canal would be an act of criminal folly," declared Theodore Roosevelt tonight at the Dallas chamber of commerce. He said that only two treaties relative to the canal existed, those with England and Panama, and hence any other nation would be at liberty to destroy it in case of war.

Colonel Roosevelt's utterances came late tonight at the close of a long dinner. He was the last speaker on the program.

"I am particularly pleased," he said, "that we have decided to fortify the Panama canal because failure to do so would have been an act not merely of folly, but of criminal folly on our part, and that not because I fear war, but because I want peace.

"People ask me occasionally, 'Do you anticipate war, and if not, why do you want to fortify the canal?' To which I have always answered, 'I don't anticipate that my house will burn down, but I have it insured.'

"And I want to call your attention to this fact. Our treaties about the Panama canal were made only with England and Panama. In the treaty with Panama we expressly reserve the right to fortify the canal. The treaty with England was made while I was President.

"I declined to submit it to the Senate until I had seen the written statements from the British minister of foreign affairs and the British ambassador that recognized our right to fortify the canal.

No Other Treaties.

"And now, let me point out this fact: No other nation in the world has any treaty with us or is under any treaty obligations or under any obligations of any kind as regards the neutrality of the canal, so that if we ever unfortunately become entangled in war with any nation whatsoever aside from Great Britain or Panama, that nation would have the absolute right, legal and moral, to seize the Panama canal.

"No other nation is under any obligations at all to respect the neutrality of that canal.

"We have covenanted to make the neutrality respected, so that any nation would be obliged to respect it, but we have agreed that we will make it respected."

In conclusion, Colonel Roosevelt spoke against mob violence and warned his hearers that popular government must find a happy medium between plutocracy and mob rule.

Colonel Roosevelt left Dallas tonight, his special train being parked several miles out of the city until early tomorrow, when it will run to Fort Worth. The early hours of the day will be spent in that city, and before noon the train will start for El Paso, which will be reached on Wednesday morning. No stops of any length will be made between Fort Worth and El Paso.

10,000 COAL MINERS TO STRIKE MONDAY

COLUMBUS, O., March 13.—Following a conference with Ohio and West Virginia union officials, Tom L. Lewis, national president of the United Mine Workers, announced tonight that 10,000 miners in Ohio and western Pennsylvania employed by operators who own mines in the Tuscarawas district, which has been the scene of dispute for nearly a year, would suspend work next Monday.

AMERICAN PRISONER WILL GET FAIR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, March 13.—R. Doran, a citizen of Arizona, who is held prisoner by the Mexican federal troops at Hermosillo, is in no danger of violence and is assured a fair trial, according to a telegram received today by the state department from American Consul Hostetter at Hermosillo. The consul says that Doran will be tried before a federal judge at Nogales.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF SAN DIEGO NEWSPAPERMEN

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 13.—Considerable anxiety is felt here for the safety of a party of San Diego newspapermen who left here yesterday in an automobile and intended to make an attempt to reach Ensenada. Up to a late hour tonight no word had been received from the party and in view of the reports that bandits are roaming over the country to the south of Tia Juana, there is some uneasiness over the fate of the newspapermen. The party was headed by W. D. Von Blaricom, editor of the San Diego Tribune. He was accompanied by H. C. Eller, a reporter on his staff; Herb Phillips and A. Wuest, chauffeurs.

CUTS THROAT RATHER THAN BE ARRESTED

MUSKEGON, Mich., March 13.—Alone in the house with his aged father, nearly 100 years old, and his two little sons, Edwin Cole of Casnovia cut his throat with a razor today and staggered into the room occupied by the centenarian and the children before he fell dead. Cole's wife and two daughters were at the time driving 25 miles to Muskegon to secure a warrant for his arrest for beating them.

AMERICAN BONDS GO QUICKLY IN LONDON

LONDON, March 13.—The subscription list of the London share of $3,500,000 of the $15,000,000 issue of the Mississippi River Power company 5 per cent sinking fund gold bonds closed at noon today, having been open only two hours.

MERELY TRYING NEW FIELD REGULATIONS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12.—Maj. Gen. W. H. Carter, commander of the maneuver division, said today that the maneuvers in San Antonio are to try out some new field regulations. He said there was no other significance attached to the assembling of troops in San Antonio.

MILWAUKEE TO SPEND MILLION FOR A PARK

MILWAUKEE, March 13.—The city council Socialist majority tonight decided to buy a stretch of 500 acres along three miles of the upper river front for a public park at a cost of $1,000,000, to be paid in 20 annual installments. The Republican and Democratic minority fought the proposition on the ground that the city has already reached its bonded debt limit.

MINOR DISORDERS IN NEW YORK STATE

NEW YORK, March 13.—Few cases of disorder marked today's developments in the Adams Express company's drivers' strike. One driver was beaten and several were stoned by sympathizers, but little general interference blocked the routine schedule. The company issued a statement tonight in which it said that practically all perishable shipments had been moved and that the situation was clearing. Officials of the strikers' organization said that the situation was practically unchanged.

CAR SERVICE RESUMED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 13.—Street-car service, which has been interrupted here for eight days as a result of a strike, was resumed this afternoon by agreement. There was no rioting.

$50,000,000 ISSUE PANAMA BONDS SOON

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The corporation tax decision will hasten the impending issue of Panama bonds. It was one of the things Secretary MacVeagh has been waiting for. Had the case gone against the government, bonds would have been issued to meet the refunds to the corporations.

It now seems likely that Secretary MacVeagh's call for bids on the new securities will announce the amount of the issue at $50,000,000 and that the call for bids will go out before April 1.

Treasury officials think the price of the new securities will be higher than is expected. Under the law they cannot be issued at less than par. As they will be absolutely free from taxation the bonds will be the highest revenue producers the government has.

INSANITY DEFENSE OF WOMAN WHO SLEW SON

ALBANY, N. Y., March 13.—Mrs. Edith Meiher, on trial for the murder of her 4-year-old boy, sat almost without movement for an hour in court today while her attorney, John H. Dugan, told the jury why he thought she should be sent to an insane asylum, rather than to the electric chair.

"This poor, defenseless, mindless woman," was the way Mr. Dugan alluded to her. "I would not if I could have this woman go from this room to freedom. I believe she should be sent to an asylum, there to spend under merciful treatment what days remain to her. We will show you that her mother and husband died from consumption and that the same disease has laid its grip upon her.

40 PRISONERS AT VERA CRUZ ESCAPE

VERA CRUZ, Mex., March 13.—Overpowering and killing the guard who opened the door of the jail at 5 o'clock this morning to give them their coffee, 40 prisoners made a break for liberty. Few persons were on the streets at that hour, and it remained for small groups of policemen to attempt to capture the fugitives. From the jail to the outskirts of the city the fight between the policemen and prisoners continued, but all except two succeeded in escaping. One was captured and one was killed. One policeman also was killed and three wounded. The prisoner who was killed is believed to have been the one who planned the escape. Mounted police are pursuing the fugitives.

CINCINNATI GRAFT DISCLOSURES WIDEN

CINCINNATI, March 13.—Sensational developements were brought to light at the opening of the trial of Jacob Baschang, former deputy liquor collector, here today. There are six counts against Baschang but the state chose to try him on the charge that he had accepted $50 for "listing" a saloon owned by George Noll. The books introduced showed the saloon had never been listed in. Neither the prosecution nor the defense would make a statement as to this phase of the case.

The revolutionary force under Generals Farrari and Marina, which for a time threatened Tegucigalpa, is now on the way to Yuscaran, a few miles southeast of here, and it is said the insurgents also will disarm.

MORE MAYBRAY GANG SWINDLERS ON TRIAL

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., March 13.—Many lawyers and witnesses from all parts of the western country arrived in the city to take part in the trial of 10 men alleged to have been associates of J. C. Maybray, now serving a term in the government prison at Leavenworth, Kan., for fraudulent use of the mails. The trial will begin tomorrow.

REBELS AGAIN NEAR JUAREZ

RAILROAD BRIDGE IS DYNAMITED.

Blanco Makes Quick March to Engage Federal Force. Holds Up Train.

EL PASO, Tex., March 13.—Capt. Oscar O. Creighton, an American, said to be a Harvard graduate, with a band of insurrectos, many of whom are Americans, tonight is camped about 15 miles south of Juarez. No fear is felt that the insurrectos are again planning an attack on the city, where business continues as usual, but the proximity of the revolutionists is looked upon as an effort to induce General Navarro's 2,000 men to take the field. Creighton's men came within 10 miles of Juarez in the last 24 hours, and the shock of an explosion when he blew up a railroad bridge was felt in the city.

Creighton reached the vicinity of Juarez after a march from the south of about 100 miles along the Mexican National railroad and left in his wake a trail of burning bridges.

The story of Creighton's campaign through the heart of northern Mexico, without being attacked by the federal troops, created a sensation in El Paso. It was said throughout his entire march not a shot was fired at him.

According to reports received by the junta tonight, six federal soldiers were killed today at Zaragosa, on the border, 12 miles east of here. The federals were going down toward Juarez when a mine which they attempted to lay under the road to be followed by the insurrectos prematurely exploded.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 13.—The passenger train from Nacozari, due at Agua Prieta at 11 o'clock this morning, was held up by General Blanco, the insurrecto leader, and did not arrive until this afternoon.

Blanco had made a rapid march across country from Cienezas Springs during the night and took up a position on the railroad eight miles south of Douglas. He was expecting the arrival of Chiapa's federal forces from Moctezuma.

An Eye for an Eye.

MEXICALI, Mex., March 13.—Declaring that he wanted action and wanted it quick, William Stanley, now wearing the title of "general," independent of Leyva and Berthold, again quit camp tonight to wage warfare of his own to the east of here.

Before leaving he issued a manifesto in which he accepted the Diaz suspension of the constitutional guarantee and in replay declared he would shoot every Mexican official or army officer captured.

"To slaughter prisoners of war is against all civilized laws," he said. "But that is what Diaz' declaration means. We have blown bridges, cut wires, etc., when war exigencies warranted. If we are to be killed for that, if captured, then on our part it is to be a tooth for a tooth and an eye for an eye."

Stanley's first objective is Algodones. The Mexican customs officials, who left Calexico last night for that point, will be the first to suffer if they fall into the hands of the insurrectos. Stanley reiterated that he would blow up more railroad tracks and bridges and if necessity arose he would protect American property and irrigation works.

Rebels Take Town.

EL PASO, Tex., March 13.—A special dispatch from the Herald this morning from Navajoa, Sonora, states that there was a spirited engagement at that place Saturday between 150 insurgents and fifty federals. The insurrectos succeeded in capturing the town with a loss of one killed and two wounded. The federals rallied near the town and are awaiting reinforcements. It is said, however, that the insurrectos had burned the railroad bridge to prevent the arrival of more federal troops.

WINNERS LOSE OUT

An oyster supper was the stakes played for by the Portland and West Side indoor baseball teams in a series of games recently finished. The West Sides won three out of five games, and the two teams met last night at one of the restaurants for the supper, but owing to a mistake it had not been ordered and the players were obliged to go home hungry. Arrangements will be made to give the supper at a later date.

JUAREZ CARD ORDINARY

JUAREZ, Mex., March 13.—A very ordinary card was run off at Terrazes park today. The race won by Napa Nick yesterday was protested by W. H. O'Brien on the ground that the horse should have carried 111 pounds instead of 105. The stewards disqualified the horse and gave the purse to Pluvius, who is owned by W. J. O'Brien. Pluvius ran second.

SAVAGE LIVES UP TO HIS COGNOMEN

NEW YORK, March 13.—Jim Savage, the big heavyweight of Orange, N. J., defeated Frank Moran of Pittsburg tonight in the seventh round of what was scheduled to be a 10-round bout. Savage beat the Pittsburger badly, and in the seventh round Joe Jeannette, acting as one of Moran's seconds, threw up the sponge.

THE ORDINANCE

prepared by the Citizens Committee embodies the careful work of its members, aided by competent legal counsel and the advice of numerous other citizens.

It is a sincere attempt to surround the sale of liquor in Colorado Springs with restrictions which will prove effective in reducing the evils incident thereto to the lowest possible minimum.

Colorado Springs has given prohibition a thorough trial. It has been subjected to a two-year test and FAILED.

Then why continue the farce longer?

Why not be honest with ourselves and adopt a sensible, practicable law which the people will respect, and which, therefore, can be enforced?

This is a practical question, to be settled only in a practical way. Remember that hysteria and emotionalism never yet provided a real solution of the liquor problem.

PITCHER TOZER AND A REPORTER SHOT BY DISGRUNTLED UMPIRE

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—In a shooting affray at Murietta Hot Springs, in Riverside county, last night, William Tozer, a pitcher of the Los Angeles Pacific coast baseball club, was wounded in the left arm and right shoulder, and Lou Guernsey, a newspaper reporter, received a bullet in the foot.

The shooting was done by "Flo" Israel, a race track follower, who is said to have fired six or seven shots with a small caliber rifle into a crowd of baseball players.

The ball team is training at Murietta Springs, and in a game played yesterday Israel acted as umpire. It is understood that Israel took exceptions to adverse comments on his umpiring. Neither Tozer nor Guernsey is seriously wounded.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 13. The third and fourth races furnished the feature at Moncrief park today, Hanbridge winning the former and Oakhurst the latter. The judges have recommended that the license of Jockey Phil Musgrave be revoked.

CHESS RESULTS

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, March 13.—The thirteenth round of the international chess masters' tournament today resulted: Bernstein defeated Capablanca, Tiechmann drew with Maroczy, Vidmar drew with Schlechter, Bernstein drew with Niemzwotsch, Marshall drew with Duras, Burn drew with Leonhardt, and the game between Tarrasch and Janowski was adjourned.

TROPHIES ON EXHIBITIONS

47 Cups Collected by Colorado College for High School Day, May 6.

The largest array of silver and gold loving cups for trophies ever offered high school athletes in Colorado are on exhibition at the treasurer's office at Colorado College, ready for the High School day which the college will hold on May 6 for the accredited secondary schools of Colorado. Forty-seven cups, varying in size from a small trophy for third place in several events, to the large, handsome gold and silver cup for the individual point winner, have been gathered by Athletic Director Claude J. Rothgeb for the meet. More interest than ever before is being shown by the high schools of Colorado in athletics and the attendance of athletes is expected to break all records. "Missionary" work among the various high schools has already commenced and Joe Witherow, the all-state center on the Tiger football team last fall, left yesterday for a few days' visit to the high schools in the northern part of the state.

CHICAGO, March 13.—The Waterloo, Ia., baseball club tonight won the final round of its fight to retain a place in the Three-I league.

VICTOR PRIZE FIGHT STOPPED BY SHERIFF

Special to The Gazette.

VICTOR, March 13.—The fight between Pete Jensen, the "Battling Dane" of Denver, and Charlie Ross of New York city, at the Victor Opera house, was stopped by Sheriff Muehlhausen tonight at the end of the first round. The principals were ordered to appear in court tomorrow. No explanation of the officer's action was given, and it came as a surprise to a large crowd of spectators. In the preliminary, Kid Blackie of Cripple Creek was knocked out in the first round by Louie Newman of Denver. All bets on the main bout were declared off.

HACKENSCHMIDT THROWS OLSON IN FAST TIME

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 13.—George Hackenschmidt defeated Charles Olson of Indianapolis in an exciting bout here tonight, winning by two straight falls. The first came in 30 minutes, 30 seconds, and the second in 16 minutes, 20 seconds.

TWO FAVORITES WIN

TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—Only two favorites were successful at the West Tampa track this afternoon. Both were odds-on, with prices so short that they were lightly played. Out of six mounts, Jockey Bergen rode four winners and two thirds.

30 DAYS FOR TAKING BOTTLE OF PERFUME

"Steeplejack" Lynch was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail yesterday by Justice Dunnington, for stealing a bottle of perfume on February 18 last. He and several companions, supposed to be under the influence of liquor, entered the El Paso Drug company's store at that time and took the perfume, which is valued at $4 a bottle.

At the request of Governor Shafroth, who stated that his family in Denver needed him, Justice Dunnington suspended the sentence. Lynch now has 10 days of a 30 days' sentence yet to serve in the county jail

APPEALS JUSTICE CASE

Joseph T. Anderson of Roswell yesterday filed notice of appeal to the county court, from Justice Gowdy's court, in the case of Mrs. Anna DeMarco against him. Mrs. DeMarco alleges that Anderson threw a hook against one of her cows, injuring the cow and damaging her income to the extent of $60, the amount for which judgment was rendered against him by Justice Gowdy. Some time ago, Anderson was arrested by the humane officer, charged with cruelty to animals, and fined $10.

James Bradley, a coal-wagon driver, was yesterday sentenced to 60 days in the county jail by Justice Gowdy, for nonsupport. He is 20 years old and his wife is only 17.

Judge W. S. Morris ordered the jury in the district court yesterday afternoon to return a verdict for the defendant in the case of F. A. Saxton against the Calhan Fire Clay Manufacturing company. The case concerned certain land rights at Calhan.

Attorney Hildreth Frost yesterday afternoon filed in the district court a money-demand suit against the Good Will Tunnel and Mining company of Cripple Creek, for the sum of $1,559.51. FRICTION BETWEEN TAFT AND KNOX IS OFFICIALLY DENIED

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 13.—Huntington Wilson, acting secretary of state, slipped unexpectedly into Augusta today, and had an hour's conference with President Taft. He returned to Washington tonight. It was later said his trip to the south at this time was due to his wish to accompany Mrs Wilson to Aiken

Coincident with the arrival of Mr Wilson President Taft received dispatches from General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, saying the mobilization of troops in Texas is practically complete

The patrolling of the Mexican border, it is said, undoubtedly will be accomplished largely through a series of practice marches or hikes. This will enable the war department to carry out its program of useful training to the officers and men as part of the work of maintaining the neutrality laws

It can be said positively that there is at present no intention of increasing the number of troops now in Texas. It is believed a sufficient force is now on the ground for patrol work for any immediate emergency that might arise

Acting Secretary Wilson's visit to the President offered an opportunity for an official denial of a report recently sent out from Washington that there had been friction between President Taft and state department officials, including Secretary Knox regarding the handling of the Mexican situation

Elated Over Decision.

President Taft's delight was beyond measure today when he was informed of the decision of the supreme court upholding the validity of the corporation tax. Mr Taft's insistence put this law on the statute books

All during the tariff fight over the Payne-Aldrich bill the President insisted that such a tax would be held to be constitutional despite the fact that many senators and others who opposed it expressed the belief that it would not stand a test

Mr Taft defended his action in signing the Payne-Aldrich law partly upon the fact that it contained the corporation tax provision

The corporation tax proved a great success, and in addition to bringing more than $27,000,000 into the national treasury in the first year of its enforcement, it gave the government much valuable information regarding many of the big interstate corporations

The bitterness with which the tax was fought was reflected in the statement of a Chicago banker now stopping in Augusta, that his institution alone put up $10,000 to test the validity of the law

Mr Taft today made the 18 holes of the Country club golf course in 97 as against 101 on Saturday last, and is much pleased with the improvement his game as shown.

REWARD OFFERED BY RAILWAY MANAGEMENT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 13.—H. Baker, general manager of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railway, this afternoon offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person interfering with the traffic or assailing any of the employes of the road. This order comes as a result of the shooting of two negro firemen at King Mountain Saturday night, and the holding up of three trains at King Mountain this morning by white men who are thought to be mountaineer friends of the strikers.

END STOMACH TROUBLE AND INDIGESTION

Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feels Fine Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or catarrh of Stomach. It doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin

EXPERTS TELL

the Greeley section try by forcing the land to return a maximum yield. Yet they are after the best kind of dry farming seed, right now, for which they are willing to pay. You could grow the hardiest seed in the world up here on the divide near Palmer Lake, if you would give some backing to the farmers who need it. There is a chance for the investment of $1,000,000 up on your divide if you will only take it. These splendid propositions you are passing by.

If your civic body would take up this proposition and push it, you would never be sorry. You ought to get started right now, to give the proper impetus given to this thing at present would result in an annual income to El Paso county farmers more than [illegible], or about $[illegible]. Since a farmer will spend an average of 70 cents of every dollar in the city he will ... would spend $3 50 for ... Colorado Springs. You could use that three and a half million, couldn't you?

Give Practical Support.

I make the statement that the uan... products of eastern Colorado, if all the land were yielding as it could be made to yield annually under dry farming, would approximate $112,000,000 in value. What you must do is to boost. This International Dry Farming congress is the biggest thing that has ever come to your city. There will be 2,000 delegates from all over the world to say nothing of those who will be here to listen to the lectures. They will get the theory at the congress. It is up to you to prepare such crops, by your support east of here, that they can see the practice of they theories successfully carried out

Form a committee now in your civic body, to get at this thing right. Your exhibition is made when you plant your crops, and not when you have the exhibit. Lay your foundation for it now this spring. See to it that the farmers have your personal backing

In Louisiana I have lately been establishing boys and girls clubs which grow this milo for prizes. They have raised the production, by that means, from an average of 18 bushels per acre, to over 100 bushels, and in some instances as high as 198 bushels an acre. Form competitive clubs hereabouts and the children will teach the big folks something. And it's up to you to get busy right away at this work.

Exploit Dry Farming.

You have enough water if you will use it in the right way. It is said that Colorado Springs men are more willing to enter irrigation enterprises than those of any part of this state. If you would put some of this money into the exploitation of dry farming it would pay you. Study this matter, familiarize yourselves with it, support it and boost, and you will indeed work wonders.

In the absence of President E. W. Giddings of the Chamber of Commerce W. S. Spurgeon presided. He made a few introductory remarks indicating the general purpose of the meeting of the body and showing the importance of the dry farming in general

The first speaker was John T Burns who confined himself to the formal announcement that a woman's auxiliary would shortly be formed. The announcement was received with great applause

Mr Spurgeon next introduced the ... Burbank of Wyoming. Prof. ... of Worland, Wyo., who ... his text that the world had hitched its wagon to a commercial star. He indicated that the commercial aspect of the development of these western agricultural lands is the prime feature. He said that "plant building must be commercially successful" and that the wealth of the world ... from the earth's great waste back to the soil." He closed his talk with the statement that dry farming ... itself to be worth millions and millions of dollars within the next decade

Education Makes for Production

The next speaker was G. W. Martin, general agent for the Rock Island lines in Colorado. Mr Martin spoke as follows:

We believe Colorado's richest gold mine lies at the front door of our commercial centers, consisting of 25,000,000 acres ... sparsely settled farming land, rich in soil, with the finest climate on which the sun shines. Its only drawback being the limited amount of moisture ... an average of 15 inches per year. With such moisture can this country be made productive from an agricultural standpoint. We believe it can. If we are right in this assumption then the question is, how? Our answer would be by educating the people ... on our semiarid lands ... drought resistent crops ... successfully grown now to cultivate them and also the great importance of diversified stock-raising, dairying and poultry raising in connection therewith. Such educational work directed along the right lines, we believe should make failures a thing of the past. That some failures in the past during extreme dry years have been made may be attributed to the fact that the people who moved into that country from the rain belt, without experience or education in dry farming, planted rain belt crops with rain belt seed which they brought along with them when they moved into this country and pursued rain belt methods. Do you wonder that some failures were made? Under such conditions it is not strange that any progress was made. The fact that some progress was made without education or experience should be conclusive of the merits of the country.

What Campaign Has Done.

The Rock Island was the first of the railroads to recognize the importance of this subject. Five years ago our road through its agricultural department under the direction of our third vice president John Sebastian inaugurated a campaign of dry farming education which has been kept up each year. This work has brought good results. During the past five years 20,000 people have been added to the number of settlers along the lines of the Rock Island in eastern Colorado, most of whom are today reasonably prosperous and satisfied. The last government census will show the ratio of increase in population along our line in eastern Colorado for the past 10 years to be greater than any other section of the state. This result may be largely attributed to the educational work done during the past five years.

Will Require Patience

The complete conquest of our semiarid soil will require many years of persistent and effective educational work. It should have the hearty support and co-operation of our people, our press and our commercial organizations. With such support, then, millions of dollars of business interchange will be added each year, and $25,000,000 of Colorado money, now being sent to other states to purchase for our home market necessary supplies of hogs, dairy products and poultry products will be kept at home and turned into the commercial arteries of our own state and our merchants both large and small will be vastly benefited by the enormous increase in the volume of trade which must come as a result of the successful development of that section

We are fortunate indeed to have the International Dry Farming congress make its home with us for the current year. The educational work it proposes will be of inestimable benefit to our state. Wherever it has worked it has shown results and its educational teachings stand for all that is progressive and up to date in scientific dry farming. The people of Colorado should aid and encourage it in every possible way.

In conclusion I want to thank the city of Colorado Springs, its business people and its representative institutions for this beautiful entertainment brought us together this evening and for the invitation which has Governor Shafroth said in part

I took no stock in dry farming until two years ago. I then went to a dry farming congress in Wyoming, where I was converted to belief in dry farming. Under the Campbell system the idea is conservation, cultivation and education. With these three attributes any reasonable man can become a successful dry farmer."

The Governor then went in some detail into the method of preparing the soil for the process of dry farming. He also paid a tribute to the work of the state board of immigration saying that the immigration in the past, and that in the future was largely a result of their endeavors. He indicated that the chief value of the dry farming exhibits lay in their exhibition to people of other states in other fairs, after this one is finished."

Results of Education.

C B Schmidt of the Rock Island lines was the next to the last speaker. He dwelt upon the great work which the railroads were doing in bringing people to settle in the states served by them

In the afternoon the visitors were received by a delegation from the Dry Farming congress and taken on an automobile drive about the city. Six big autos were used to take the visitors, who were taken up Cascade avenue to the Glockner sanatorium, thence to the Deaf and Blind school the Printers home, Stratton park and Broadmoor

Facing the License Question Squarely

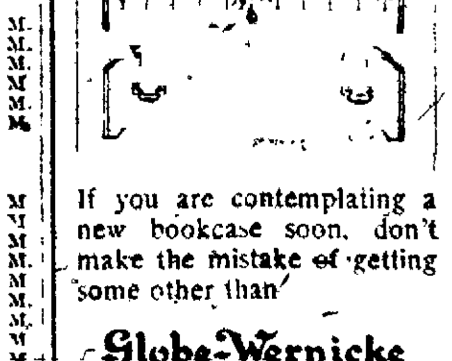

It has been more or less evident during the past two years that this community has not been satisfied with the situation with respect to the sale of liquors in Colorado Springs

This has been proved time and again by the demands made upon druggists by their customers all over the city that liquor be sold to them. The fact that violations of the law were as numerous as they have been indicates that a large number of the people of the city declined to be bound by the prohibitory law, and were themselves evading it and asking others to violate it

Is it not better under such circumstances as these to face this license question fairly and squarely and instead of causing so many violations of law, under the guise of prohibition, to meet the demand which very evidently exists, by means of a rigorous license ordinance"

The license ordinance prepared by the citizens committee after several weeks of careful consideration of the matter in all its phases is unquestionably the strongest and most restrictive ordinance in its provisions that has ever been presented. It contains a number of valuable features not known to any other license ordinance which has been in operation hitherto in this city

It is an ordinance which should appeal to the reflecting section of the community which believes that present conditions cannot continue, but that some effort should be made to control and restrict a traffic which is now running at large, and without any effective restraint or control. If the people of Colorado Springs desire to control the liquor business they have the opportunity in their own hands by voting in favor of the Citizens committee ordinance on April 4

MAKING THE DIRT FLY.

THE beginning of actual construction on the storm sewer system this week is an event of importance, for it marks the end of the talking stage of the public improvement campaign and the beginning of the end to which everybody has long looked forward. It seems an age since public-spirited citizens of Colorado Springs began to agitate street paving. Again and again the project was revived, only to be discussed in a desultory way for a few weeks and then dropped. Now there is no doubt whatever that the whole business district of Colorado Springs, embracing about twenty-five blocks, will be paved before the end of the year. Possibly it may be done before the beginning of the tourist season; indeed, we are inclined to think that it might not be a bad thing to have the streets torn up while the tourists are here next summer as a practical demonstration that Colorado Springs is really doing things.

We do not recall a time when the future of Colorado Springs looked brighter than at present. The reorganized Chamber of Commerce has got under way with an abundance of enthusiasm and its committees are buckling down to work with a determination to produce results for the benefit of the Pikes Peak region as whole. There is every reason to believe that the vexed liquor question will be settled next month by the revocation of the present farcical prohibition law and the adoption of a license ordinance which will put an end to the hypocrisy and lawlessness of the present system. Public improvements of vital importance to the city, and which have urgently been needed for many years, are being started. The paving of the streets, with the related question of storm sewers, sanitary sewers, etc., is a complicated matter, and the long delay in beginning was not wholly unjustified. There is satisfaction in knowing that none of the preparatory work has been overlooked and that when the job is finished it will be permanent. It will not be necessary to rip up the paving a half dozen times in the next two or three years to repair old pipes or lay new ones, for all of the underground work will be disposed of before the paving is laid.

MANY THINGS TO BE DONE.

Colorado Springs will wear a different aspect when these improvements are completed. Its business district will present a cleaner, more attractive and more metropolitan appearance, and we shall no longer bear the reproach of being the largest city in the country with unpaved streets. But paving, important as it is, is by no means the only improvement needed. No effort should be spared to bring the union depot project to a successful conclusion. If we are to build for the future it would be folly to overlook the bad effect of having the whole area of the city cut up into a checker board by railroad tracks running in every direction. To overcome this condition will require prolonged effort and the expenditure of considerable money. But the importance of the end abundantly justifies both work and expense.

Any allusion to building for the future immediately calls to mind the importance of the movement to secure a comprehensive plan of city building. If it were not that we do not believe that the present paving and parking plan will prove inharmonious with any future comprehensive plan for the whole city we would favor a still further delay in the beginning of this work. But inasmuch as the paving concerns only the business district, there is hardly a possibility that a civic architect would find anything in it to conflict with his ideas for the appropriate beautification of the city as a whole.

PARKING FOR PIKES PEAK AVENUE.

However, we have frequently suggested one minor change in the paving plans which could still be made without delaying the entire project. This is the parking of Pikes Peak Avenue in the business district. To do this would not involve the necessity of removing the car tracks, nor would it cause the slightest inconvenience to traffic. By constructing two large, oval parked spaces in each of the two blocks between Cascade and Nevada Avenues the cost of paving would be materially reduced, and at the same time the street would be beautified in a way otherwise impossible of attainment.

As a general plan for this particular improvement the following outline is at least suggestive: The length of each block is 400 feet. Two oval parked spaces could be constructed in the middle of the street in each block, each of them 125 feet long. An open space 100 feet long could be left between the parked spaces to permit the traffic to move freely from one side of the street to the other and from one alley entrance to the other. Instead of placing the end of the parked space flush with the end of the block, an additional open space of twenty-five feet could be left to still further facilitate traffic. The street car tracks would remain as at present and the grass in the parkway watered from the sprinkling cars.

This plan has been used with excellent effect in Boston, Baltimore and other cities where careful attention has been given the esthetic side of municipal development, and has been entirely successful. It could be used to even better advantage here because of the extraordinary width of Pikes Peak Avenue. Under present conditions it is impossible to conceive of the traffic ever being heavy enough to require all of the space in Pikes Peak avenue, and the extra space can only remain a source of expense for maintenance.

Would it not be well for the Council to give further consideration to this matter before the paving of Pikes Peak Avenue is begun?

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

It is a very easy matter, and a natural thing, for people to form ideas and express conclusions regarding a matter that has been so extensively discussed as has been the liquor license question in our city lately. Sometimes these conclusions are based on known facts, and therefore may be correct, or at least nearly so, but many times I have known people to arrive at conclusions on public questions of this kind and give expressions to their conclusions when they really had not taken the time nor gone to the trouble to become familiar with the real facts in the premises, and it seems to me that this has been practiced to some extent in the present issue by some who say that the present local option law has accomplished nothing for good in this city, for certainly some of us do know, beyond a possible shadow of a doubt, that under this law during the past 20 months or so there has been accomplished a wonderful amount of good for the moral welfare of the people of this city.

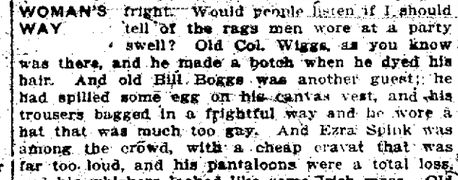

Conditions in this regard have never been so good before during the 12 years I have known this city. With the exception of one vacation of 19 days, three years ago, I have been on Huerfano street almost every day, and from once to many times each day for a little more than nine and a half years. Being interested in this liquor question for many years before coming to this city, I have naturally observed the situation very closely in my section of the city, and I say here, positively and emphatically, without any prejudice whatever toward any living man or any set of men, that until the adoption of the present local option law and its partial enforcement, the first two blocks on Huerfano street, west of Tejon street, certainly were very much like similar blocks we have all seen in open saloon towns, so far as drunkenness and the visible effects to be seen on the sidewalks of these two blocks were concerned. When I moved my business from Cascade avenue to Nos. 5 and 7 West Huerfano street, nearly four years ago, into that large building with a 50-foot front on Huerfano street, I had been in my new store only three days when I counted 15 drunken men on the sidewalk of my 50-foot front, all at one time. I phoned the chief of police and requested him to remove these drunken men from my front. He sent the patrol wagon down and picked up two or three, and the rest scattered. I had this same experience a number of times thereafter. Finally, calling the police department seemed to me to a process too slow and ineffective, so I made up my mind to take that matter into my own hands and try to improve conditions on my own business front. I proceeded to place at easy reach, on the inside of my store front, articles with which I could protect myself in case of trouble, and for quite a long time during the following period these drunks would often collect on my front. Many times I am sure there would be as many as 20 or more in that half block. In fact, one day I counted 42 drunken men in that block, but every time they would get too thick and too noisy, with their indecent language, I would walk out on them and order them to march on. The most of them would always move on, but now and then one fellow would bristle up and refuse to be ordered to march on. To this fellow (and this occurred there with me many times) I would say very plainly and firmly: "You are a man with as much right to walk along this sidewalk as I have, but I give you to understand positively that you cannot stop on my front when you are drunk, and you will march on now or I will proceed to do business with you right here." And in this very unpleasant way I tried to keep my front respectable and as free as possible from drunken men. Now, I grant you this is not very interesting for anyone to read; it is not very interesting for me to tell, and it was still less interesting for me to experience at the time, but I give these things here because they are absolute facts which I saw and actually experienced on Huerfano street during the seven and a half years or so under liquor license preceding the adoption by this city of the present local option law, and are facts that bear directly on the question now under consideration by the voters of this city. It has been so long now since I found it necessary to even notice a drunken man on my front that I really cannot state when the last occurrence of this kind took place, but it seems to me that it has been at least 15 to 18 months. I see and know of my own knowledge that there has been a most marvelous improvement in these conditions on West Huerfano street. It is nothing short of nonsense to the man who has closely observed these things and who has been in close touch with the situation to hear people say that there has been no improvement in the situation in Colorado Springs during the past 20 to 22 months under the present local option law and its partial enforcement.

Now, I wish to say that we, simply a few of us, are not trying to "force our ideas on the people of this city," but we have been, and are now, trying to enforce the will of the majority of the voters of this city as expressed at the election on this particular subject. Are we wrong in trying to enforce the law made by the vote of the majority of the people? If so, then we will prefer to remain in that "wrong" and fight to that "wrong" until we change our minds and conclude that it has become best and right that we should uphold the will of the majority instead of enforcing the will of the majority.

I am certainly most deeply interested in the welfare of the business interests of our city. This has been my home for almost 10 years, and so far as my intentions are at the present this city will be my home as long as I live, and I firmly believe it now to be to the interest of every business man in this city and the duty of every citizen of Colorado Springs to vote against the liquor license proposition at the coming election, and then, after the election is over, become personally interested to help see that the law is more vigorously enforced and upheld than ever before, and to work together in every way to help make conditions better and better all the time in every respect in our city.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont.—Andrew Moodie, a farmer residing near the town, went to visit a neighbor, John Telford, last night. As he opened the door leading into the house he fell, in the dark, through the open trap-door of the cellar. At the moment Telford was ascending the cellar stairs, and Moodie dropped astride his neck. Both went to the bottom, Telford escaping unhurt, but Moodie sustaining a fracture of three ribs.

WOMAN'S WAY

It's always pleasant to hear a girl, when she comes home from a social whirl, She tells a tale of the gowns she saw, of the hats of silk and the hats of straw; and Mrs. Jinks was a dream in white, and Mrs. Wax was a perfect fright. Would people listen if I should tell of the rags men wore at a party swell? Old Col. Wiggs, as you know was there, and he made a botch when he dyed his hair. And old Bill Boggs was another guest; he had spilled some egg on his canvas vest, and his trousers bagged in a frightful way and he wore a hat that was much too gay. And Ezra Spink was among the crowd, with a cheap cravat that was far too loud, and his pantaloons were a total loss, and his whiskers looked like some Irish moss. Old Aaron Dingbat, the giddy flirt, was there wrapped up in a cheap blue shirt, with a plate glass gem on his manly breast, and three buttons missing from off his vest. The host, who stood in cheap cowhide boots, regaled his guests with some Sum cheroots, and searched our coats and our trouserloons, through a baseborn fear that we swiped his spoons.

The Daily Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"There was a young lady from Kent
Who always said just what she meant.
Said her friends, 'She's a dear,
So unique, so sincere'—
And they shunned her by common consent."

Why is it, I wonder that people who pride themselves on saying just what they mean, somehow seem to mean disagreeable things most of the time? Why is it that people who pride themselves on seeing clearly seem to see flaws so much oftener than good points?

A little neighbor of mine put on her new gown for our inspection the other day, and awaited our admiration with all the excitement and enthusiasm of a young person who doesn't have pretty gowns often enough to conceal her pride and delight.

A blood relation of the lady from Kent, a person who prides herself on her sincerity and goes about rebuking the rest of the world for their lack of it, happened to be present.

"Yes, it's pretty, but there is something wrong with the sleeves," was her immediate comment.

My little neighbor's pretty radiance gave place to a look of disappointment and anxiety as suddenly as if a cloud had hidden the sun.

And I had all I could do not to suggest to the lady that she consult an oculist for those abnormally flaw-seeing eyes of hers.

You say that if there was anything the matter with the gown it was well for its possessor to know about it that she might have the fault corrected.

Quite so.

But why need that have been the only thing the lady saw and the first thing she said?

Why might she not have noticed and remarked that the lines of the skirt were excellent, that the color was most becoming and that the whole effect was thoroughly attractive, and then later have made the suggestion about the sleeves?

She would have done just as much good and caused less unhappiness.

One may see clearly and yet see kindly; one may say just what one means without being a killjoy, if one will go about it in the proper spirit.

For I think one can be sincere and yet remember and live by Heine's definition of the purpose of the tongue:

"God has given us our tongues wherewith we may say pleasant things to our neighbors."

SLEEP AND DEATH

Let us give thanks for two things, Sleep and Death—
Sleep, who takes little children to his arms
And blesses them, and gives them to the day
With rosier cheeks, whose touch, we know not how,
Lulls all the fever in our youthful limbs;
Who comes more slowly in the after years
When life grows chillier, but is still our friend,
Nerving us for endurance or for toil,
Who blinds us to the glamour of the world,
Wreathes other skies beneath the arch of night,
And wafts us through that other varying world,
So bright, so sad, so strange and perishable;
And Death, whose friendly hand undoes the knot
That Time's benumbing fingers fumbled at,
And rids us of the body whose embrace
Ensphered us in a world within a world,
And gives it back to Nature whence it came,
Leading us forth into the universe
Strong with fresh hope and eager in desire
To find the life we vainly sought for here.

I have lived long enough to know the taste
Of good and evil, to know what I am,
And what the world is. Now, I wait for Death
As patiently as one who waits for sleep
Far in the night, not tossing restlessly,
Knowing that sleep will surely come, though late.
Nor idly do I linger; but as one
Who knows his friend will come, yet none the less
Is ever busy with his wonted toil
As the slow hours roll onward, till he hears
The welcome steps within the corridor,
And the door opens and the friends clasp hands;
And are as one forever; so I work
At the sore tattered tapestry of life
Of which we know not origin nor end.

THE SCIENCE OF CITY BUILDING

From Harper's Weekly.

There are certain cities, big and small, that are deserting the Topsy method of just growing. They are being gently and persistently pushed along toward greatness. To use an invidious metaphor, they are picking factories from their less wakeful neighbors and planting them in their own towns, they are causing the transfer of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of business from the somnolent cities and, in this time of reforms, are boasting of their remarkable progress in population.

The way the thing is done may be aptly illustrated by the manner in which Poughkeepsie obtained an automobile factory. The secretary read in a newspaper that an Italian company was thinking of locating a factory in this country. Without waiting for the owners to have a chance to look the country over and decide for themselves, the secretary pounced upon them and talked Poughkeepsie, talked it hard and convincingly. He invited them to come up and see the place, and when he got them there took them all over the town, showed them the schools and churches, the parks and working-men's houses, told them about the railroad facilities and rates. Then he took them to the very spot that he had picked out in advance where they could build, he pictured the factory to them, pointed to the homes their men would live in, told them how low the taxes were and how healthful was the air. When they went away the visitors had every good point about Poughkeepsie throbbing in their heads in a hundred different forms, and consequently they straightway came back and built their factory in Poughkeepsie.

MARK TWAIN AND THE PREACHER

Upon one occasion he was introduced to a well-known preacher, whose church he had attended the previous Sunday. The preacher ventured to inquire how he had enjoyed the discourse, when Mark Twain replied that he would have liked it better if it had been original. The cleric looked at him in amazement and inquired his meaning, remarking that he prided himself that every sermon he preached was original.

Mark Twain fixed him with a steely eye. "Then how comes it, sir," he demanded, sternly, "that I have in my possession at home a book that contains every word you uttered?" The preacher looked more bewildered at this question than ever, and expressed a desire to see this volume, and Twain promised to post it to him the same evening. The preacher was greatly entertained to receive the next day a packet from the humorist containing a copy of an ordinary pocket dictionary.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS JUST 30 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Most of the citizens were shovelling snow off their sidewalks and roofs.

The Rev. R. T. Cross announced his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church, which position he had held since 1878.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

March 14, 1891.

A petition for a school in the northwestern part of the city was being circulated in the Rock Island and Loomis additions.

The annual banquet of the Crowell hose company was held in Al Baur's restaurant and was a very pleasant affair.

Seven Famous Friendships

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is no one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Sunday and continuing during the week.

No. 2 DEMETRIUS AND ANTIPHILUS

A famous friendship, which in many respects was a counterpart of that between Damon and Pythias, existed between Demetrius, the Greek orator and statesman, and Antiphilus. The two were brought up together and traveled together into Egypt. Demetrius went to see the antiquities of the country, while Antiphilus remained behind to study physics. During the absence of the former, one of the slaves of Antiphilus associated himself with some thieves to pillage the Temple of Arubis (anarbis), where they stole several statues, as well as other things, and concealed them under a bed in Antiphilus' house.

The thieves were taken as they were selling some part of the booty; and on being put to the torture, they impeached the slave who was first arrested, and then his master, at whose house part of the stolen goods were found. Antiphilus was cast into a dark dungeon, where in the day time his hand was fastened to a ring, and set at night to a block. The heinousness of his supposed crime prevented any one from assisting him, as well as all were shocked at the idea of sacrilege. His two other slaves carried off everything that belonged to him, while he lay in prison, and he remained thus abandoned by all the world, and tormented by his jailer, who thought he was doing service to the gods in ill-treating him.

Demetrius, who knew nothing of the misfortunes of his friend until his return, no sooner was informed of the melancholy news, than he hastily ran to the prison, where they would not give him admittance, because the jailer was gone to rest, and the guards had taken their post. He was therefore obliged to wait till the next day, and even then it was with difficulty he found admittance, and had no less difficulty to recognize his friend.

After having sought for him for a long time, as we seek a man among the dead after the day of battle, he would not have found him, had he not called on him loudly by name. Antiphilus faintly answered the call. Demetrius knew his voice, but could scarcely recognize his person, so much was it disfigured. Having turned his disheveled hair from his forehead, which it covered, he was so shocked at the sight that he fainted away. Antiphilus, overcome by his feelings, also fell into a swoon.

Demetrius first recovering, did what he could to restore his friend to his senses, and gave him his own cloak to supply the place of those wretched rags that only barely covered him. The greater part of his effects having been carried off by the slaves of Antiphilus, he found himself now without resources, and he had neither credit nor money, having spent all he had with him in his tour. Thereupon he engaged himself at the port to carry merchandise as a porter, and, after having worked all the morning, he took all he had earned to his friend, of which he gave one part to the jailer, and with the other he and his friend regaled themselves.

At night Demetrius was obliged to retire, and sleep at the door upon a little bed of leaves and branches; for he was not suffered to sleep in the prison.

Thus they lived for some time, till one of the prisoners, dying with poison, as was supposed, no person was afterwards suffered to enter the prison. Demetrius, however, who could not think of quitting his friend, went through despair, and impeached himself as an accomplice in the sacrilege. He was accordingly sent to the same prison; but it was with difficulty he persuaded the jailer to admit him into the same dungeon with his friend. However, they endeavored to soften their calamities by conversation, and each seemed to take more care of the health of his companion than of his own.

In the meantime an accident happened, which restored them to liberty at a time when they had no reason to expect it. One of the prisoners having obtained a file, got off his irons, and after having killed the guard, fled with the rest of the prisoners. The two friends, however, remained in prison, choosing rather to die, than obtain their liberty by means worse than death. The governor of Egypt being informed of the circumstances, set both of them at liberty, after permitting them to prove their innocence; but surprised at so much fidelity, he gave 10,000 drachms to Antiphilus, and double that sum to Demetrius, who retired to India, and left everything to his friend.

PETITION ASKS SCHOOL BOARD TO NAME DIRECTOR

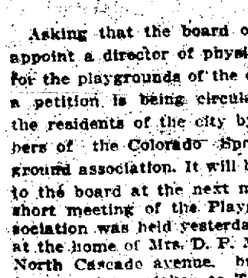

Asking that the board of education appoint a director of physical training for the playgrounds of the city schools, a petition is being circulated among the residents of the city by the members of the Colorado Springs Playground association. It will be presented to the board at the next meeting. A short meeting of the Playgrounds association was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. F. Mayher, 726 North Cascade avenue, but an adjournment was taken to Thursday afternoon when more definite plans will be made.

The association feels that it is not a question of increasing the playgrounds of the city, but the proper use of the grounds which each school has at the present time. "Systematized play," is the slogan of the association and it is understood that the school board favors the plan.

A meeting of the board may be held this week, and the question of the High School athletic field, a large "playground," may be definitely settled.

ANOTHER PATROL FORMED

Boy Scouts Organize at Washington School—Go on "Hike" Saturday.

Another patrol of Boy Scouts was organized in this city yesterday at the Washington school, five members being enrolled. Walter D. Thomas, scout master who was in charge of the formation, reports that a mothers' meeting will be held at the Ivywild school Thursday afternoon, at which time efforts will be made to organize a patrol of the Scouts there. Plans for the future were outlined to the new patrol yesterday.

The Boy Scouts of the Steele and Washington schools and the Y. M. C. A. will go on a long "hike" Saturday, but their destination has not been decided upon.

Educators of Note Named to Address Teachers Institute

Speakers of national and state wide reputation were chosen at a meeting of the executive committee of the fifth institute district in this city yesterday. The committee met to arrange a program for the annual teachers institute which will be held in Colorado Springs the first two weeks in August. Members of the committee, from El Paso, Elbert, Douglas and Teller counties which comprise the district, were present and the following were selected to speak at the meetings:

Dr. M. V. O'Shay, head of department of education at the University of Wisconsin, general lecturer for the course; Professor J. V. Breitwieser, Colorado College, lecturer on psychology. Miss Jessie Lee Newlin, Chicago university, lecturer on reading; Professor G. H. Ernesti, Colorado State Normal school, lecturer on art; Mrs. Louise D. Coffin, Colorado Springs lecturer on language and geography; Miss McCall, Colorado Springs, primary methods.

Several other speakers will be named before the final program is announced.

The general reception and musical which is held during the institute will be conducted on more elaborate plans than usual and some social features never before introduced will be arranged. The executive committee is made up of Mrs. Lewis, superintendent of schools in El Paso county, and secretary of the institute; Professor Bent of Douglas county, president, and Mrs. Kern, treasurer.

PRAISES PIKES PEAK REGION

German Traveler and Lecturer Says Scenery Is Unsurpassed Chicago Finer Than New York

Dr. Jur Richard Jaffe, a prominent lecturer and traveler of Leipsic, Germany, is registered at the Antlers. Dr. Jaffe says that the scenic beauties of the Pikes Peak region are ahead of any in America. The Short Line trip to Cripple Creek, he declares, is unsurpassed.

Dr. Jaffe is making a tour of America with the expectation of presenting the features of the country in Germany. He says that Chicago is a finer city than New York and much more progressive. The people of Colorado and the western states are more truly "American" than any other, declared Dr. Jaffe. He will leave today for New Mexico.

YOUNG BEAR ON RAMAGE

There was considerable excitement in the basement of the Majestic theater building yesterday when a young grizzly bear had a sudden attack of musical fever and tore off a few bars of his cage preliminary to making a tour of the surrounding territory. Hearing the racket, an attendant went down to investigate and was chased out in fast tempo by the animal, which then proceeded to convert several boxes and sundry stage "props" into kindling wood.

Quiet was not restored until Mr. Phillips of the Rosa Naynon company was called to the scene, whereupon Bruin, jr., beat a hasty retreat to a remote corner of his cage. The bear is one of a collection of 12 being secured by Miss Naynon for an animal act she intends to stage next year in connection with her exhibit of tropical birds. She has already secured four young animals, two cinnamons, one brown bear and the grizzly which went on the rampage, and a fifth is scheduled to arrive from California some time this week.

NO LEASES LOWER THAN THE 1,000-FOOT LEVEL

Above That Station El Paso Company Will Continue Present Policy. Officers Re-elected.

Announcement that the present leasing policy will be maintained during the coming year with the exception that the lessees be allowed to work only above the 1,000-foot level, was made at the annual meeting of the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, held yesterday morning in the company's offices in the Exchange National bank building. Allen L. Burris was re-elected president by the board of directors, and J. N. Beaty was elected vice president to succeed Judge J. C. Helm of Denver. Other officers re-elected were: Daniel Thatcher, secretary-treasurer, and John H. Nicholls, superintendent.

The former board of directors was re-elected, as follows: Allen L. Burris, L. L. Aitken, J. N. Beaty and E. J. Eaton, all of Colorado Springs, and A. J. Styhr, Judge J. C. Helm and A. C. Gardner, all of Denver.

The newly-elected executive committee consists of Messrs. Burris, Styhr and Beaty. The firm of Spurgeon and Cassidy will be appointed to act as attorneys for the company.

According to President Burris, the directors deem it wise to await the near future, when heavy production is expected, before they pay another dividend. The equipment for the Nicholls shaft and the financial assistance which we shall give the tunnel company will make it necessary to postpone a dividend, which is due at this time. The crosscut has drained the El Paso mine to the 1,000-foot station, and it will require a month to clean up the timbers and debris in the station and shaft at this point."

Stock to a total amount of 1,491,690 shares was represented out of the 2,500,000 shares for which the company is capitalized. There were 75 stockholders present.

Annual Reports.

The total receipts from ore sales in 1910, net mill returns was $342,068.70, all receipts from all sources, $117,864.28, according to the annual statement of receipts and expenditures submitted by Daniel Thatcher, secretary-treasurer. The balance on hand January 1, 1910, was $143,667.34, and the total disbursements during 1910, amounted to $461,797.68, leaving a balance on hand January 1, 1911, of $99,327.94.

The total receipts from the operation of the mine were $561,103.38, and the total operating expenses $512,486.31, leaving $48,617.07 as the excess of earnings over operating expenses. A total of $32,801.31 was spent in drainage, leaving a net profit for the year of $15,815.76. The surplus on December 31, 1910, was $429,691.82 as compared with a surplus of $467,172.87 on December 31, 1909.

Nicholls' Report.

Superintendent John H. Nicholls reports that the new shaft on block No. 22 of the property has been completed to the fourth level and that it will be sunk 150 further to get under the Beacon Hill Ajax ore shoot, one of the largest in the mine, which will open for development the later part of this summer. The two big pumps, one on the sixth and one on the 1,000-foot level, have been recovered and the former has been disconnected and stored away, as will be done with the latter immediately. A crosscut has been driven from the Tillery vein on the fifth level to open the C. K. & N. ore shoot where a large body of good ore has been found. Two drifts are also being driven on the sixth level—one to the C. K. & N. and one to the Tillery vein. The former is carrying good ore. Work is now being done on two filled stopes, one on the sixth level of the C. K. & N. vein 200 feet long and 60 feet high, and the other on the fifth level of the Tillery vein 125 feet long and 60 feet high. Work on stoping ore on the tenth level of the C. K. & N. vein will start this month. At the present time there are 25 sets of lessees working, all above the fourth level of the main shaft. Of the lessees, 15 are producing ore and have more ore in sight now than they had this time last year. In the last year 8,262 feet of development work was done mostly by lessees. The largest tonnage on company account this year will be mined from the fifth, sixth and seventh levels of the C. K. & N. vein.

MOOSE ENTERTAINMENT ON THURSDAY EVENING

Next Thursday night the Moose will hold a celebration and entertainment in Moose hall. On the program will be a vaudeville "stunt," music by the Moose band, progressive high five tournament, a supper and a dance.

1911 YEAR BOOK ON MINING IS RECEIVED

Contains Certified Reports Companies Listed on C. S. Exchange—Also Some Excellent Pictures.

The 1911 year book of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association has just been received. It contains the official summary of the certified reports of all the companies listed on the Colorado Springs exchange and a brief resume of the work of the past year in the Cripple Creek district, together with excellent pictures of some of the noted mines.

The most important events of the last year are the completion of the Roosevelt deep drainage tunnel and the successful development of the low-grade milling operations.

During the 20 years of its existence the Cripple Creek district has produced over $280,000,000 worth of gold. It is estimated that there is gold ore to the value of $317,509,000 that can be profitably mined, remaining in the ground. Of this amount it is estimated that $193,509,000 lie between the present water level and that of the new water level of the Roosevelt tunnel, 740 feet lower, and the remaining $125,000,000, which can be mined by shafts, lies below the latter point.

In the early days of the camp, the high cost of mining and transportation made it unprofitable to mine ore running less than $30 per ton. With the coming of the railroads this minimum was reduced to $15 per ton. Efforts have constantly been made to find a method to successfully treat the ever-increasing tonnage of low grade ores that were opened up in the extraction of the higher grades that could be profitably worked by existing methods. After exhaustive tests, Strattons Independence erected a mill in 1908 to treat 5,000 tons of ore per month which has been enlarged subsequently until it now has a capacity of 9,000 tons per month and is treating at a profit ore of an average value of $3 per ton. The Portland company, acting on similar, though independent lines, has erected a mill which is treating 9,000 tons per month of $3.40 ore at a substantial profit. At no distant date the annual output of the district will include the gold extracted from the millions of tons of the low-est grades of ore, of which the supply in the mines and on the dumps of the district is almost inexhaustible.

TOURIST COMMITTEE SELECTED BY ELSTUN

This Division of Chamber of Commerce Will Work Hard to Make This Record Year.

That everything will be done to make this year one of the most prosperous tourist seasons in the history of Colorado Springs, is the intent of the tourist committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which is headed by George S. Elstun, and plans are already being discussed for unusual features and for arrangements to handle properly the annual visitors here. Mr. Elstun, to simplify matters, has appointed a large committee to assist him, which represents almost every interest connected with the tourist business in the Pikes Peak region. Subcommittees on various phases of the work will be appointed and active preparations made at once for getting more tourists here than ever before. A meeting of the committee will be held the last of the week at which time the executive subcommittee and the various subcommittees will be appointed and the plans outlined.

The members of the tourist committee are:

George S. Elstun, proprietor of Alamo hotel, chairman; C. H. Austin, proprietor of the Cave of the Winds; Guy Atkinson, proprietor of Plaza hotel; W. O. Brinker, manager of Acacia hotel; H. C. Benton, manager of Alamo livery; O. M. Brumbaugh, treasurer of Manitou Incline railway; W. F. Conway, proprietor of Elk hotel; W. S. Deaths and Funerals

MRS. L. J. ANDERSON DIES

Aged Woman, for 25 Years a Resident of City, Was Prominent in Church Circles.

Mrs. Lodima J. Anderson, aged 82 years, and for 25 years a resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 121 South Weber street. She was prominent in church and social circles.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Pauline Atchinson, a teacher in the public schools, and Mrs. Grace Allen, and by her son, T. K. Anderson, who lives in California.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock from the residence. The Rev. J. S. Wilson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

DIES ON A TRAIN

Miss Jessie Welsh, a healthseeker from Lawrence, Mass., died yesterday morning on the train which was bearing her home, near Goodland, Kan. She had been living in this city for a number of months but her health failed rapidly during the last week, and, with her mother, she had started home in the hope that the lower altitude would benefit her.

AGED BRIDEGROOM DIES

G. W. Ring, 77 Years Old, Came Here on Honeymoon Two Months Ago. Body to Kansas.

George Washington Ring, aged 77 years and a bridegroom of two months, died yesterday morning in Broadmoor. Mr. Ring came to Colorado Springs last January on his honeymoon tour and became ill as he was preparing to return to his home in Edmunde, Kan.

The body will be taken to Edmunde this morning for interment. His bride will remain in Colorado Springs.

INVENTS CHICKEN HOVER

T. J. Elston of Bedford, Ind., formerly of Colorado Springs, has been granted a patent for an automatic self-dividing chicken hover, by which an unlimited number of chickens can be kept in the same park all running together. By a clever device the hover can be set to divide any number of chicks off in pens, and it is said to be of great value to poultry raisers. Mr. Elston lived here several years ago, and was employed by Ernest Waycott of Colorado City.

Gentlemen:

I have been too busy this year to pay much attention to the seed business, but could put you up a few hundred packages which would thrive in your climate and give thorough success, on the same terms as last year, if you let me know at once.

I am going to make tremendous reductions this year and sell all the packets (without regard to the superior value of some of them), at 10c each.

We are putting up a particularly generous packet of the best quality of sweet peas and several other kinds of seeds which sell everywhere else (same quality and kind), at 20c to 25c each.

We can send you a lithograph of the poppies and probably some other pictures and literature which will be of use to you.

Yours truly,
LUTHER BURBANK.

ADDITION TO COUNTY JAIL IN NEAR FUTURE

County Commissioners Say Capacity of Present Building is Taxed to Utmost.

An addition to the present county jail is a pressing necessity of the near future, according to the county commissioners. While it may be impossible to get at the building this year, an addition is a certainty for that building. At present there are 55 inmates there, and a few more "vags" or residents of other counties would tax the capacity to overflowing. Commissioner Hutchinson said yesterday that as soon as the financial end of the matter could be arranged, which would probably be the first of the coming year, that definite plans for the addition would be made.

Annual Report of Sugar and Land Co.

According to the annual report of the United States Sugar and Land company, issued yesterday, the net income for the year 1910 was $233,753.88, and the net surplus for that period amounted to $101,512.62. The annual report of President C. M. MacNeill of the company has nothing to do whatever with the annual meeting, which will be held April 10. Over 16,677,200 pounds of sugar were manufactured.

The company owns property valued at $5,367,884.85, and outside investments which include the Garden City, Amazon and Farmers canals, the United States Irrigation company and the Deerfield Improvement company are valued at $1,227,570.90.

The annual report states that the present season's prices on sugar have been at least half a cent per pound below that of 1910, and has cut down the profits to some extent. The total tonnage of beets handled by the plants amounted to 80,804 tons, and the company has land holdings up to 37,173 acres. All the factories were reported in excellent condition and an encouraging prediction is made for the 1911 season. The officers of the company are:

C. M. MacNeill, president; C. C. Hamlin, first vice president; J. D. Hawkins, second vice president; Keith Stewart, third vice president; Spencer Penrose, secretary; A. G. Hopkins, assistant secretary in Colorado; Ralph C. Porter, second assistant secretary in New York; F. A. Gillespie, treasurer and general manager and E. F. Greenwood, assistant treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of J. D. Hawkins, chairman, Spencer Penrose and C. C. Hamlin.

The directors are: Chas. M. MacNeill, Spencer Penrose, C. C. Hamlin, J. D. Hawkins, J. A. Hayes, F. A. Gillespie and O. H. Shoup.

North Dakota Farmers Indorse the Congress

The Sixth National Dry Farming congress, which will be held here in August, received hearty indorsement at a district dry farming convention in North Dakota last week, the convention being the fifth of a series held since the first of the year. A large delegation of representatives from North Dakota promised to be present at the national meeting in Colorado Springs, and were enthusiastic over the affair. A large membership list from that section of the country is being placed on the books of the secretary's office.

ENGINEER'S REPORT ASKS EXTENSION OF THE MAIN

The extension of the 16-inch water main from the High Line reservoir along Madison street from Tejon street to the eastern limits of the city, thence down the eastern limit line to Rio Grande street, in the southern part of the city, with division feed mains running from it, and pressure valves to regulate the flow from the big main, is the gist of the report submitted verbally to the members of the City Council and the committee on water works yesterday afternoon, by Hydraulic Engineer Hiram Phillips of St. Louis.

To carry out this plan would cost about $130,000, but it is understood the city officials may do this soon, rather than take up extension or improvement work in the mountain part of the city's water system.

Mr. Phillips' plan also includes strengthening the mains in other low pressure parts of the city, including the south end and west side.

The automatic pressure valves recommended in the report are to enable the greatest possible pressure to be brought to bear in any part of the city in case of fire.

In his completed report, Mr. Phillips will probably recommend a new distributing reservoir in Palmer park, northeast of the city, and another big pipe line from the Manitou settler. He will also recommend the installation of duplicate big mains to provide for an emergency such as a break. This latter work will not be urged as necessary at once.

The Quickest, Surest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much of as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SHOWING OF SUITS AND MILLINERY EXCELLENT

Giddings Brothers Display of Very Latest Styles Attracts Large Crowds.

The second floor of Giddings Brothers establishment was the objective point for every woman in the city who could possibly get down town yesterday, for not one would willingly forego seeing the splendid showing of the very latest in women's, misses' and children's suits, costumes, coats, waists and the French, English and American models in millinery.

Chief, perhaps, among the exclusive novelties in suits are those of black soft wool back satin with narrow skirts and short coats richly trimmed with passementerie and often with color touches, of which the emerald green is a prime favorite. Another style attracting attention is what is called the "duo" dress, which consists of a one-piece dress with a little "monkey" jacket.

The evening gowns of voile, crepe or marquisette are shown by Giddings Brothers in endless variety, and "perfect dreams" well describes them. The sheer materials are over messaline of china silk of contrasting color and beautifully garnitured.

The new pinks, the Helen, the coral and the lobster shades are lavishly introduced into both gowns and hats and give a distingue touch, always, vying with the vivid emerald green and the king blue.

While the coats with suits are short the separate ones are long and loose fitting and trimmed with velvet collars in colors and large buttons. The white long coats in serge and basket cloth are especially chic with their large sailor collars.

In hats, the millinery department makes one of the finest exhibits ever known to the Rocky mountain region. The leader is the "helmet," brought out this season by Kursman of New York, and copied by the French. This model is shown in both large and small styles and the "helmet" bow is seen on many of the large hats.

An account of the opening would be incomplete unless more than a passing note is made of the fascinating little breakfast caps, the daintiest possible models for which caused many expressions of admiration. The caps are of fine mull or net, either lined with the wearer's most becoming color or left unlined and frilled with lace and trimmed with jaunty rosettes of ribbon.

The callers yesterday afternoon were much indebted to the courtesy of Miss Irene Hamilton of the millinery department and Mr. Ralph Rathbun of the suit department, who were tireless in their attentions, and saw that the many articles of special interest were brought to the notice of every one.

ARRANGING Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS

The Y. M. C. A. circus, one of the most popular events of the year in the Boys department, is being arranged by secretary W. B. Thomas of that department, and will probably be held the middle of April. The affair this year is to be conducted on somewhat different lines, and a number of features never seen here will be arranged.

URGES CONGRESS EXHIBIT

Rock Island Railway Official, in Letters to Civic Bodies, Boosts Dry Farming Meeting.

Much valuable advertising is being given Colorado Springs and the Sixth International Dry Farming congress which will be held here next fall, in the letters which are being sent to all the commercial and civic bodies of the United States and Canada by John Sebastian, third vice president of the Rock Island railway. He advises every community to make exhibits and calls the congress the "great world's meeting." The letter reads:

Secretary Chamber of Commerce,
Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dear Sir—The sixth annual International Dry Land congress will meet in Colorado Springs, Colo., next fall, during the week of October 16.

This is a great world's meeting and it is expected that there will be delegates from most of the states and from many foreign countries. It is also probable that there will be at this congress hundreds of visitors who will come to learn the best methods of dry land farming, and to study the exhibits from the various dry land farming sections with a view to selecting a locality in which to purchase a farm and build a home.

The directors of the dry land congress are planning to have the most extensive and complete exhibit of dry land farm products ever gathered together.

It will pay your community to make a large exhibit of soils and of field, orchard and garden crops grown under dry land farming.

It will pay to exhibit charts showing the extent of your live stock industry—horses, cattle, hogs, sheep, milk, cream, butter, cheese, poultry, eggs, etc., and photographs of farm buildings, animals and crops.

The dry land congress will offer one of the best opportunities that your community has ever had for showing its opportunities and resources.

I would urge that you take the matter up immediately with the farmers and business men of your section and arrange for the planting and growing for exhibition all crops adapted to your territory. Arrangements should be made to take photographs all through the season of scenes of interest.

The agricultural department of the Rock Island lines stands ready to assist by advising as to best crops, planting, preparation of exhibits, etc., and invites correspondence.

Yours truly,
JOHN SEBASTIAN.

STUDENTS INSPECT MILLS

Members Senior Class, School of Mines, Arrived In City Yesterday Morning.

About 30 students of the senior class at the Colorado School of Mines at Golden, arrived in Colorado Springs yesterday morning to spend two or three days in this vicinity inspecting the mills and reduction plants at Colorado City in their annual tour. They will visit the Pueblo smelters and steel works, and will make an extended inspection of the mines in the Cripple Creek district. This, however, is not their long tour, which is taken late in April and extends over a period of three weeks.

Mr. Fred A. Sperry has just returned from Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he secured the contract for screens at the new Moffett hotel. Mr. Sperry finds business good, and in addition to the hotel contract, secured several other nice orders for the Burrowes Rustless screen, for which he is the agent.

LAST MAN SIGNS UP

Fraternity Trouble at High School Settled for Good and All Yesterday.

The days of the High School fraternity, its troubles with the school board and its mystifying air of seclusion are over, for yesterday the last fraternity man in the High School signed the paper requested by the school board and the matter is entirely settled. Only one member held out until yesterday, the last day of grace, before signing.

The board expects no further trouble in the matter, and the athletic coaches are rejoiced to know that their best players will be eligible for the spring games.

FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, ASTHMA

Breathe Hyomei; a Pleasant, Soothing, Healing Antiseptic.

IT IS GUARANTEED

For catarrh, acute or chronic; colds, coughs, croup and sore throat HYOMEI is guaranteed or money back.

In cases of deafness caused by catarrh, there is no remedy so efficient.

HYOMEI is a liquid extracted from the eucalyptus trees of Australia, combined with other antiseptics, and is a soothing, healing, germ-killing antiseptic.

A complete HYOMEI outfit consisting of a bottle of HYOMEI and an indestructible hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00. For treating catarrh or any nose or throat ailment pour a few drops into the inhaler and breathe.

That's all you have to do and as the air passes through the inhaler it becomes impregnated with antiseptic HYOMEI, and this soothing, healing air as it passes into the lungs reaches every particle of the inflamed membrane, kills the germs and heals the raw, sore, catarrhal spots.

If you now own a HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) inhaler, you can buy an extra bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents from druggists everywhere.

EXPECT TO SEE A LARGE IMMIGRATION MOVEMENT

"Conditions are very promising for the largest immigration movement to Colorado in history," said C. E. Schmidt, immigration commissioner of the Rock Island railway, who, with others, prominent Rock Island officials, is a visitor in the city. "We expect a large increase in our counties, namely: El Paso, Lincoln, Kit Carson and Elbert, and are trying to get the very best type of citizens," he added.

Mr. Schmidt, who has had 20 years of experience in immigration work, and is one of the well-known authorities in the country on this subject, is not in favor of educational restrictions for admittance to this country. "Just because a man cannot read and write, does not keep him from being a good citizen," he said. "We should not be selfish with our big country. We could not keep our supremacy in manufacturing if we did not have these foreigners to do the heavy labor. We can't count on the Americans to do it."

That the German or the Scandinavian makes the best immigrant is the opinion of Mr. Schmidt. Italians are becoming more desirable because of the stricter enforcement of the immigration laws. "We have good enough immigration laws," said Mr. Schmidt; "what we need now is a rigid enforcement of them."

In the last four years the Rock Island has settled 92,385 families in the eight states covered by their lines. In the four Colorado counties on the line an increase of 255.2 per cent is registered according to the 1910 census in the last 10 years. Compared with the total increase in the state, 48 per cent, this illustrates the work which the immigration department of the railroad is doing.

A DAINTY TOILET ARTICLE

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance, while at the Theater, attending Receptions, when shopping, while traveling, and on all occasions should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves, which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed, and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool, delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 10 cents in stamps or coin. F. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones St., New York.

"THE BARRIER."

Tomorrow night "The Barrier," the Amsterdam Theater, New York city play, written by Rex Beach, will have its initial performance in this city at the Opera House. It will undoubtedly be the dramatic event of the season. Not only does the Barrier come with the indorsement of New York and other cities, but this indorsement is supplemented by [illegible] praise for the excellent work of the company that has been organized [illegible].

detail and there is ample opportunity for her to display her emotional talents.

Mr. Norval MacGregor, who will be seen as "Capt. Burrell," will again demonstrate his power and strength in this, one of his best characters. Mr. Cleveland will be seen in the role of the French Canadian and as the New York World said, "Last night Mr. Cleveland as 'Poleon' gave a remarkable performance. This talented young actor has an excellent career before him."

"THE MAN OF THE HOUR."

The most talked-of play by George Broadhurst, "The Man of the Hour," which has been playing at the Savoy Theater, New York for two years, will be the attraction at the Opera House for two performances on Saturday, matinee and night.

"The Man of the Hour" is a timely play, full of dramatic incidents, with plenty of comedy, and telling a story of human interest. The Mayor's signature is all that is necessary to make the bill a fact, and the "machine" has elected to the office, after a hard flight, a rich young man, who they thought could be easily handled. He proves honest, however, and although all kinds of pressure are brought to bear, steadfastly refuses to make the proposed measure a law.

The love interest in "The Man of the Hour" is that of the young man for the niece of the financier who is responsible for the bill. She has told her lover that in order to win [illegible] he [illegible] but [illegible] up the fight of his life against the "bosses."

"The Man of the Hour" is divided into four acts, and is given with an elaborate production as well as a cast of excellence, including Mr. Harry English, Warren Conlan, Edward Keane, John Moore, John Morris, Clyde P. McCabe, Frank Kendricks, Franklin George, G. H. Pelt, George [illegible], Geo. A. Cameron, Frank Watson, Alfred Burns, Miss Emma Naylor, Miss Virginia Irwin, Florence Mack.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK

Regarding the forthcoming presentation of Mr. George M. Cohan's great musical play, "The Man Who Owns Broadway," at the Opera House next Monday, it is said to be a forward march in the realm of high class musical comedy, tinged with distinct character and charmingly melodious. The solos are delicately scored and the finales reach to genuine sound comic opera construction.

Mr. Cohan has treated the story with simplicity and the tender swaying melodies will compel even the unmusical listener to yield to its spell. No deep musical education is required to appreciate Mr. Cohan's music. He writes for all mankind; all classes acknowledge the wizardry of his achievements.

This latest contribution was especially written for Mr. Hitchcock and gives the clever comedian ample scope for him to dispense his quaint humor. The story of the play concerns the love affairs of an actor and the daughter of a millionaire.

There are twenty-one song hits; all good, some better and a half dozen that will be whistled on the streets. The company supporting Mr. Hitchcock numbers eighty people and includes his clever wife Flora Zabelle, John Hendricks, Richard Taber, Francis Lieb, Mark Sullivan, Mildred Elaine, Lelia Rhodes, Gertrude Webster and a strong singing chorus and many dancers, together with a large augmented orchestra.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

GAZETTE AMUSE—TUESDAY

A BROKEN SHOULDER THAT BROUGHT LUCK

Ordinarily one would not consider a broken shoulder as a very nice thing to have, but just as other apparently unfortunate things often bring good luck, so it was in the case of Billy Dooley, who is the "man behind the gun" in the sensational act of Ray Dooley and her Metropolitan Minstrels who are creating such a furore at the Majestic this week.

Somewhat over a year ago Billy Dooley, then a member of a well-known acrobatic team, fell and fractured his shoulder blade, putting him out of commission for several months. His sister Ray, who by the way has been in vaudeville almost since she wore long dresses, and who, by the way again, is still in her teens, was then traveling with another show. She had long cherished an ambition to have a company of her own and as soon as she heard of her brother's ill luck made a proposition for him to manage one for her.

This was the beginning of Ray Dooley's Metropolitan Minstrels, one of the biggest successes of recent years in vaudeville. The troupe consists of Miss Ray Dooley, her sister, Miss May, her brother Gordon, two other clever misses and another lad with a fine voice who with Gordon Dooley does the end man stunt. Every one of them can sing, dance and cut up generally, and on their first tryout they made so good that they got an engagement immediately and have been on the road ever since. What is more important, they have contracts for two years to come with hardly a couple of weeks of rest in all the 104 weeks, and at a figure which proves better than anything else that they are one of the biggest drawing cards of the day.

This act is received with a great deal of warmth and it is appreciated by the girls in the company who in their makeups as "kids"—and they are still kids at that—dispense with such artifacilities as stockings or even flesh colored tights. They are hoping for warmer weather the rest of the week, but in the meantime are putting unusual zest into their clever singing and dancing so's to keep warm. The act is a big hit in a bill full of big hits.

For Skin Sufferers

If you have undergone the itching, burning, sleep-destroying torments of eczema or other cruel skin eruption and have suffered from its embarrassing, unsightly disfigurement; if you have tried all manner of treatment, no matter how harsh, disagreeable or expensive, to no avail, and have all but given up hope of cure, you can appreciate what it means to you and thousands of skin-tortured sufferers, young and old, when the first warm bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment bring instant and grateful relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to speedy and permanent alleviation.

Sold everywhere. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, for book on the skin.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Colorado Springs Drug Co., and Pikes Peak Pharmacy Co.

SOME ARMY CUSTOMS

Old Traditions Passing Practices of the Service.

From the New York Evening Post.

Captain James A. Moss, Twenty-fourth United States infantry, read an interesting paper before the annual convention of the National Guard association of New York at Albany recently on "Customs of the Service."

Captain Moss said he had given considerable attention to the practices in the army in the last few years, and that since the Spanish-American war many of the traditions and customs of "the Old Army" have entirely or partially passed away, owing to the general reorganization of the army and the passing out of so many of the older officers and the influx of a large number of young officers from civil life and from the volunteers—men who knew nothing about the customs of the service and who seemed to care less. Captain Moss cited a number of the various customs in the army, several of which are given below.

The expression "How," used by army men in giving a toast, is equivalent to the expression, "Here's to your health." Some think it is merely the Indian corruption of "How d'ye do," abbreviated by the Indian to "How," and taken up and used by officers and soldiers who in the early days of frontier service were thrown in constant contact with the Indians. However, on the other hand, there are others who believe the expression is derived from the Indian language direct.

"Sounding Off."

At parade and at guard mount when the adjutant gives the command, "Sound off," it is customary for the band to play three chords of flourishes, called "The three cheers," before beginning to play the march and marching up and down in front of the command. After the band has returned to its place and finished playing the march "the three cheers" are again sounded. This practice comes from the following custom that obtained during the Crusades:

Soldiers that had been selected to go on the Crusades were often formed in line with troops not so selected. The band would march past and countermarch only in front of the soldiers designated for Crusade service, thus signalling out and dedicating to the cause these particular men. It is very probable that the assembled populace did considerable cheering during this part of the ceremony, and it is quite likely that "the three cheers" are symbolical of that cheering.

Parades and reviews originated in the days of feudalism, when rulers, as a suggestive display of their strength, were wont to parade their soldiers in the presence of other rulers.

The following versions are given of the derivation of the expression "Dough Boy" as meaning "Infantryman:" In olden times, when infantrymen used to clean their white trimmings with pipe-clay, if caught in the rain, and the whiting would run, forming a kind of dough. Hence the sobriquet "Dough Boy." The tramp of infantry marching in mud sounds as if their shoes were being worked and pressed in "dough." From Adobe, then "Dobie"—the idea being that infantrymen are the soldiers who have to march in the mud; hence the expressions used in the sixties and early seventies in referring to infantrymen as "Dobie crushers," "Dobie makers," and "mud crushers." However, some infantrymen think they are called "Dough Boys" because they are always "kneaded" (needed.) While other infantrymen think they are so called because they are the "flower" (flour) of the army.

Saluting With the Hand.

The custom is supposed by some to have come from a Roman practice dating back to the Borgias, or even earlier. In those days assassination was so common by the dagger that inferiors coming into the presence of superiors were required to raise the hand, palm to the front, thus showing there was no dagger concealed in it. Time and custom have modified the requirement to the present method of saluting.

There are others who are inclined to this view: From the beginning of time inferiors have been required to uncover before their superiors, and equals to acknowledge each other's presence by some courtesy. In the British army during the revolution a sentinel saluted not only with his gun, but by taking off his hat also. Complicated headgear like the bearskin and the helmet could not be readily removed, and the act of removing the hat degenerated into the movement of the hand to the vizor as if the hat were going to be removed, and finally became conventionalized as at present.

The practice also comes from the customs during the Crusades, of knights, when receiving orders, always to call upon God to witness their assumption of the duty imposed, by raising the sword to the lips and kissing the cross formed by the guard and body of the weapon. The dipping of the saber point in saluting signifies submission.

A NARROW ESCAPE

From Lippincott's.

"Do you think it would be well for us to be serious?" she asked.

"Good heavens!" I replied. "Haven't I been serious? Why, I have been making love to you steadily now for two weeks. Could anything be more serious than that?"

She regarded me stolidly.

"It has not been without its humorous aspects," she asserted. "as, for example, when you asked me if I would marry you."

I reflected.

"Perhaps," I said, "it is just as well that you regarded that part of it as humorous. You might have felt, you know, that I was taking advantage of you. It is one thing to make love. It is another to marry."

She sighed incontinently.

"And yet," she observed, not without a slight touch of impatience, "you are only just perceiving this. It has taken you all this time to arrive at the truth."

"Will you forgive me?" I said gently. "You must remember that you are ahead of me in so many things. I perceive my mistake, of course. But it isn't too late. You know I can still continue to make love—without any thought of marrying. I can still do this, with an ever-increasing gratitude to you for showing me the way."

"That is the point," she declared, with a touch of severity. "There has been too much of it. I know all that you know about making love, and—"

"I am learning more all the time," I whispered. Surely—

"I know all that I care to know about what you know," she continued, ignoring my interruption, "and I wish to know something about your knowledge of other things. How can we continue to be—well, friends—if there is but one thing that you can talk about?"

"Why should we be friends?"

"You do not wish it?"

"Certainly not."

It suddenly occurred to me that a crisis had arisen between us. I saw that it was all or nothing. I must act.

"It is this," I continued rapidly; "you are tired of my love making and you wish to know if there is anything else that I can do that will make our company endurable to each other. No, there is not. I am hopeless in all other respects. You know that I can not make love—you have tested me. Why, in two weeks' time I have done nothing but talk. I haven't even kissed you."

At this instant I took her firmly in my arms.

"But this has got to end," I said sternly. "I am going to now. There! and there! and there!"

She regarded me faintly.

"I was almost afraid," she whispered, sinking into my arms, "that you were impossible."

It is reported that the Pennsylvania railroad is experimenting with the use of the telephone for communication between the locomotive cab and the caboose of long freight trains. This will do away with the necessity of signaling by means of lamps, hand signals and whistles. In foggy weather and at night such a means of communication would expedite the handling of freight.

Fred Warner Carpenter, former secretary to the President, who as American minister to Morocco, has so far been unable to present his credentials to the sultan.

The position is one that has troubled many of Mr. Carpenter's predecessors and is brought about by the wildness of the country the American minister must pass through to reach the sultan's court at Morocco from his residence in Tangier.

bought a bottle and began to get better from the start, and for the past six months I have had scarcely any pain and am able to walk as well as ever." J.H. SANDERS, P. O. box 5[illegible], Rockaway, N. J.

Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Mr. Sanders tells plainly what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did for it. One ounce of salicylate of soda added to one bottle of Nervine makes an excellent remedy for rheumatism, which is now known to be a nervous disease and therefore subject to the influence of a medicine that acts through the nerves, as does

FOR A TONIC NOTHING EQUALS S.S.S.

The need of a tonic in the Spring is almost universally recognized. We have learned that a weakened, run-down system means more than "Spring Fever," as we are accustomed to refer to the physical disturbances which come at this season. Bodily fatigue, fickle appetite, poor digestion, nervousness, lack of energy, etc., prove that the proper amount of nourishment is not being supplied to the body through the circulation. The stomach, bowels and digestive members are sluggish from lack of stimulating nutrition, and in consequence the entire body suffers from the effects of a poorly nourished constitution.

The recognized importance of pure blood in preserving health emphasizes the danger of a weakened circulation. The use of a real blood-purifying tonic when the system is deranged from lack of nourishment, will often prevent the development of some serious sickness, because weak systems cannot resist disease, while healthy, well nourished constitutions are able to ward it off. No medicine is of value as a tonic except one which purifies and enriches the blood, for until this is done the body will not receive its required stimulus and disease-resisting powers.

Your S. S. S. in my opinion, is as good a medicine as can be had; it simply cannot be improved upon as a remedy to purify and enrich the blood and to invigorate and tone up the system. Last Spring my blood was bad and I was run down in health, and having seen your medicine highly advertised, I commenced its use. Today my blood is in fine condition and my general health is of the best. Am filling position as fireman of a large concern here, and if I was not in good physical condition it would be impossible for me to fill the place.
WM. F. VAN DYKE.
815 Fifth St., Beaver Falls, Penn.

S. S. S. is the best Spring tonic because of its genuine ability and worth as a blood purifier. It builds up the depleted system in the true way, by purifying the blood and supplying an increased amount of nourishment to every portion of the body. S. S. S. removes all accumulations and impurities from the circulation, enriches the blood, and overcomes the unpleasant physical ailments that afflict at Spring time. It aids and improves the appetite, reinvigorates every fibre and tissue of the body and imparts healthful energy to all who are run down. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE.

CONCERNING WOOD AVENUE IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NUMBER ONE.

All owners of real estate which is included within the boundaries hereinafter described, and all persons interested generally ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that the City Council of Colorado Springs, by virtue of the authority conferred upon it by the Charter and the ordinances of said city, has taken the preliminary action necessary to create and establish Wood Avenue Improvement District Number One, and has adopted full details and specifications for grading, parking, surfacing, curbing, guttering and otherwise improving Wood Avenue between the southerly property line of Fontanero Street and the Northerly property line of Columbia Street, and all streets intersecting Wood Avenue between the points above designated, said intersections to be improved as above provided between the easterly and westerly property lines of said Wood Avenue. That said district shall be known under the name and style of Wood Avenue Improvement District Number One, and that said district will be composed of all real estate lying within the following boundaries, to-wit:

Beginning at the northwest corner of Block A in the D. Russ Wood Addition to the City of Colorado Springs according to the recorded plat thereof at a point 190 feet west of the west property line of Wood Avenue and on the southerly property line of Fontanero Street thence easterly along the southerly property line of Fontanero Street to the west line of the alley between Wood Avenue and Cascade Avenue in said addition, thence southerly along the west line of said alley to the northerly line of Columbia Street, thence westerly along the northerly line of Columbia Street to the intersection of the west line produced of Block J in the D. Russ Wood Addition to the City of Colorado Springs with the north line of Columbia Street, thence northerly along said west line and the same produced of said Block J, and along the west line of Block A in said addition to the northwest corner of said Block A in said addition, the place of beginning.

That on the 8th day of March, 1911, the council adopted a resolution which is in substance as follows, to-wit:

Section 1. That the plans, specifications, maps and estimates of the city engineer relating to the improvements to be made in Wood Avenue Improvement District No. 1 as presented to the council on the 8th day of March, 1911, be and the same are hereby approved and made a part of this resolution, subject to such changes and modifications, if any, as shall be authorized by the council after a hearing of the persons interested in said district as hereinafter provided.

Section 2. That the real estate to be assessed for the improvements to be made in Wood Avenue Improvement District No. 1 shall consist of all real estate, except streets and alleys, abutting on Wood Avenue between the southerly property line of Fontanero Street and the northerly property line of Columbia Street and all real estate abutting on the streets intersecting said Wood Avenue between the points above designated within one-half block east and west of said Wood Avenue.

Section 3. That the improvements to be made in said Wood Avenue Improvement District No. 1 shall consist of the grading, parking, surfacing, curbing and guttering and otherwise improving Wood Avenue between the southerly property line of Fontanero Street and the northerly property line of Columbia Street, and all streets intersecting said Wood Avenue between the points above designated, said street intersections to be improved as above provided between the easterly and the westerly property lines of said Wood Avenue, in conformity with the full details, specifications, maps, and estimates made by the city engineer after the same have been authorized by ordinance.

Section 4. That the probable cost, as shown by the total estimate of the city engineer of the improvements to be made in Wood Avenue Improvement District No. 1, is $16,563.95, which said estimate includes the cost of engineering and general expenses, and that the maximum share of said total estimate that will be assessed upon any front foot of any real estate abutting on Wood Avenue between the southerly property line of Fontanero Street and the northerly property line of Columbia Street is $3.9013; that the maximum share of said total estimate that will be assessed upon the front foot of any real estate abutting on each of the streets intersecting said Wood Avenue between the points above designated within one-half block east and west of said Wood Avenue is $.5102; the share assessed upon each front foot of real estate abutting on Wood Avenue will be the same without regard to the depth of the lot, and the amount to be assessed upon each piece of real estate abutting upon said intersecting streets will be the same without regard to the depth of said lots.

That to the said total estimate and to the respective shares thereof, or to so much of said estimates and shares as may be required to pay the same cost of said improvements, there will be added six per centum for costs of collection, and other incidentals, and there will also be added interest at the rate of six per centum per annum on the bonds issued from time to time in payment of said total cost, said interest to run from time of issuance of said bonds, to payment of the general expenses and other costs of said improvements, to the time the first installment of the assessment becomes due; that said assessments shall be due and payable without demand within thirty days from and after the final passage of the ordinance assessing the whole cost against the real estate abutting upon said avenue and intersecting streets; providing, however, that any owner who shall pay his full assessment within said period of thirty days, may receive a discount of six per centum, added for cost of collection, and also a discount on such payment, at six per centum per annum from the date of said payment to the time the first installment is payable, or in default thereof in ten (10) equal annual installments of principal with interest at six per centum on unpaid installments; the first of said installments shall be due and payable upon the next succeeding date after the passage of said assessing ordinance upon which general taxes, or the first installment thereof, are by the laws of this state made payable, and the remainder of said installments shall be due and payable successively on the same day of each year thereafter until paid in full.

Section 5. That a map of the district to be assessed showing the location of the proposed improvements to be made in said Wood Avenue Improvement District No. 1, from which map the approximate share of said total cost that will be assessed upon each piece of real estate in the district may be readily ascertained; the estimates of the engineer and all proceedings of the council in the premises are on file and can be seen and examined by any person interested, at the office of the city engineer at any time during business hours on or before and until eleven o'clock A. M. on the 24th day of March, 1911, on which day and at said hour and for such length of time as may be required thereafter the council will hear, at the council chamber in the City Hall in the City of Colorado Springs, all complaints and objections concerning the proposed improvements that may be made by the owner of any real estate to be assessed, or by any person interested in said improvement district.

Section 6. That the city clerk be and he is hereby directed to cause to be published for ten days in a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city, a notice directed to the property owners and all persons interested in the improvements to be made in said district, without naming them, which notice shall recite the substance of this resolution and notify said property owners of the time and place when a hearing will be had, as herein provided for.

As directed by said resolution I hereby notify you that on the 24th day of March, 1911, at the hour of eleven o'clock A. M. and for such time thereafter as may be required, at the council chamber in the City Hall a hearing will be had by the council as provided in said resolution, that at said time and place you may present your views concerning any and all matters pertaining to said district and the improvements proposed to be made therein.

Dated at Colorado Springs, Colorado, this 9th day of March, 1911.
CHAS. CHAPMAN,
Clerk.

SACKING ORE FROM LEASE ON ISABELLA

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 13.—Heavy production continues from the Bull hill estate of the Isabella Mines company, shipments from the Lee shaft having totaled 17 cars, with six cars billed out from the Empire State shaft up to Sunday night. This ore will average about $25 to the ton.

Some high-grade ore is also being mined, as evidenced by the sacked consignment to a local sampling plant, loaded out for Sahlbeck and partner, operating a sublease from the Western Investment company, on the Comet claim. Sixteen sacks, containing 1,400 pounds, returned values of 43 ounces gold, or $860, to the ton. This lease has been hampered by the storms of the past month, as no buildings have as yet been erected, and the men, when working, are exposed. Sahlbeck has a shipment of milling grade ore broken in addition to the high-grade marketed.

The School Section Leasing company is also saving ore from the leased ground in the extreme northeast part of the Isabella territory and will shortly commence shipping from the School Section shaft on Block 8. A two-car shipment from the School Section mine was loaded out by team this morning. This ore, on which royalty is paid the state, is of about $25 grade. The original lease on this ground is held by the Co-operative Mining and Leasing company of Colorado City.

Victor Tunnel Ships.

Ore teams owned by Whitmore and McDowell were kept busy today loading out a two-car shipment from the Victor tunnel, operated under lease by the International Mines and Land company. The ore, mined by tunnel from the Victor, is estimated at between $25 and $30 grade. The Victor mine is under lease to the Western Investment company, and is making steady production of milling grade ore.

Climax in Ore.

Cain and Whitmore of Altman, operating the Climax mine at Midway, through the deeper shaft on the Londonderry, adjoining, were loading out their trial shipment today. The ore taken from the Wild Horse extension is estimated at about one ounce gold to the ton.

Coriolanus Lessee Shipping.

H. H. Lotz, who recently purchased the interest of his partner, Clabe Jones, in a lease on the Coriolanus on Battle mountain, has ordered teams in the mine tomorrow, to load out his initial shipment. Assays of the ore exposed have returned values as high as two and three ounces to the ton.

Dissolution Notice.

Formal notice of dissolution of the Brother Jonathan Gold Mining company has been filed for record with the clerk and recorder of Teller county.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Colorado Springs People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Colorado Springs people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. E. N. Edgecombe, 1724 Grant avenue, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "The public statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in December, 1906, still holds good and at this time, I gladly re-endorse the remedy. I had kidney trouble and learning that Doan's Kidney Pills were very effective in cases of this kind, I procured a supply from the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. Their beneficial effect fully justifies the praise I have given them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

STREET UNAFFECTED BY COURT DECISION

NEW YORK, March 13.—One of the group of supreme court decisions which Wall Street long has awaited with some trepidation, upholding the constitutionality of the corporation tax law, brought about merely a brief decline on the stock exchange when it was announced today. Within a few minutes stocks bounded back to the best prices of the day and later made further improvement. Active stocks in most cases closed with good fractional gains.

The action of the market was regarded as indicative of its present strong position. The small supply of floating stocks, the eagerness of the bear traders to cover, and the knowledge that the largest holdings were in strong hands combined to prevent substantial losses. Speculative operations of the day centered largely about the railroads, Atchison closing a point higher. Minneapolis and St. Louis preferred sold at nearly 20 points below the last transaction prior to today, which was in November.

One of the largest copper producing companies was reported today to have made a further reduction in the price of its high grade ore. Western railroads reported a shrinkage in tonnage for last week. Rates for time money showed still further ease today and the market for prime mercantile paper was easier in tone. The unusual financial strength of the west doubtless has its bearing on continued low rates at this center.

The general bond market was irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,001,000. U. S. bonds were unchanged on call. Quotations Furnished by Otis & Hough.

WHEAT DECLINE DUE TO HEAVY SELLING

CHICAGO, March 13.—Heavy selling carried down the price of wheat today after experts investigating had declared that the damage from Hessian fly was inconsequential. Closing figures showed a net decline of ¼@1c to 1¼@1⅜c. The other chief cereals, too, finished with a loss corn off ⅛c to ⅜@⅝c, and oats ⅛@¼c to ¼c. Provisions at the end of the day were the same as Saturday night to 7½c below.

One of the big sellers of new crop contracts for wheat was a prominent speculator who had been out of the market for some time. Pressure centered mainly on July delivery. Cash demand was, if possible, worse, and the larger longs seemed to lack nerve for any active attempt to stop short sellers from hammering the market. Early in the day firm cables and a decrease in the United States visible supply afforded a little aid to the bulls. Closing prices, though steady, were almost the bottom for the session. May ranged from 90c to 91⅝c, with last sales ⅞@1c off at 90⅛@⅛c.

Leading sellers of corn were the same people who were pounding wheat. May fluctuated between 49½c and 50c, finishing ⅛c net lower at 49½@⅝c. Cash corn was easy. No. 2 yellow closed at 48@48½c.

Oats suffered in sympathy with other grains. May varied from 30⅞c to 31½c @⅛c, with latest figures 30⅞c, a net decline of ⅛c.

Both shorts and longs purchased provisions, but there was a big run of hogs here and west. When the final gong sounded pork was 2½c to 7½c lower, with lard and ribs unchanged to 2½c decline.

A Significant Fact

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? Is it not a significant fact too that

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the only medicine sold through druggists, for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ills, the makers of which are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper? Is this not worthy of your consideration if you are a poor sick invalid woman?

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

It's foolish—often dangerous to accept a substitute of unknown composition in place of this time-tried medicine of known composition. Don't do it. Insist on getting what you ask for.

CHAPTER XXII

Piecing the Puzzle.

Palermo was in a perfect ferment. Not since the last revolution had people seen such a pitched battle in the streets, for Macpherson and his myrmidons had used no gentle means to pacify Gros Jean and the Turks, whilst the crew of the Belles Soeurs would not be in a fit state to go to sea for many days.

An excited mob of people surrounded the hotel when Brett and Talbot arrived with their wounded prisoner. Fortunately the chief of police came in person to ascertain the cause of all this turmoil. The first alarmist report that reached his ears made out that a species of international warfare had broken out in the harbor.

He told his subordinates to clear away the crowd and explanations by Brett and Winter soon demonstrated the wisdom of an official communique to the press that the row on the piers was merely the outcome of a quarrel between some intoxicated sailors.

The chief of police politely offered to place detectives at the disposal of the Englishmen for the proper custody of their captive. Brett thanked him, but declined the proffered assistance, having decided to warn Winter not to interfere.

"The only prisoner of interest," he explained, "received such severe injuries during a struggle which he brought on himself that he will be quite unable to be moved for several days. His right arm is broken, and his face has been reduced to a pulp. There is a stout Frenchman named Beaucaire and three Turks who accompanied him, whom I recommend to your safe custody. We bring no charge against them, but it would be as well to keep them under lock and key until we have left Palermo."

"Do you mean the murderer Gros Jean and the Turks who accompanied him from Messina by train today?"

"Yes."

"You need not trouble about them. They have all been carried to the hospital."

"What!" exclaimed Brett. "How did they come to be injured?"

"I cannot tell you exactly, but they, together with some sailors from the fishing-smack, were knocked senseless by the crew of the steam yacht when the young lady was shot."

"What young lady?" demanded Brett and Talbot together. This conversation had taken place in the entrance of the hotel, whilst Dubois was being carried to a bedroom by the servants.

"Did you not know?" inquired the official gravely. "The young lady was of your company who stayed here with you—the niece of milord, the elderly gentleman."

"Edith! Shot, did you say!" cried her brother, leaning against the barrister for support.

"Yes, but not seriously, I hope. She has been brought here. The doctors are now with her in her room."

"Who shot her?" demanded Brett savagely.

"The person who was flung into the harbor by the other milord. It is stated that she is a woman, but really at this moment I have not heard all the facts. She was carried to the hospital with the others."

The two waited to hear no more. They ran upstairs, and Talbot would have fallen twice had not Brett supported him. Reaching the corridor which contained their apartments they found Sir Hubert, Lord Fairholme, Daubeney, and Mr. Winter standing silently, a sorrowful, motionless group, outside Edith's room.

"What terrible thing has happened?" Brett asked them. "Surely Miss Talbot cannot be seriously hurt?"

The only one who could answer was Mr. Winter.

"We hope not, sir," he said, "but the doctors will be here in a moment. They are extracting the bullet now."

Before the bewildered barrister could frame another question the door to Edith's room opened noiselessly, and two Italian gentlemen emerged. One of them spoke English well. He addressed himself to Sir Hubert Fitzjames.

"I am glad to tell you," he said cheerfully, "that the young lady's wound is not at all dangerous. It looks worse than it is. Most fortunately, the bullet first struck a large bone button on her coat. This, combined with the thick woolen material, and some small amount of padding placed beneath the collar by the maker, offered such resistance that the bullet lodged itself against the collarbone without breaking it. Consequently, although the wound has a nasty appearance, it is not at all serious. The young lady herself makes light of it. Indeed, she thought that an anaesthetic was unnecessary, but of course we administered one prior to extraction, and she is now resting quietly."

"You are not deceiving us, doctor? Tell us the truth, for Heaven's sake." It was Fairholme's voice, broken and hollow, that so fiercely uttered these words.

The kindly doctor turned and placed his hand upon the earl's shoulder.

"I would not dream of such a thing," he answered. "It would be cruel to raise false hopes if the young lady's condition were really dangerous. Believe me, there is nothing to fear. With the careful attention she will receive, she will be well able to travel within a week, though, of course, the wound will not be fully healed until later."

Sir Hubert managed to stammer—

"When can we see her?"

"As soon as she wakes from sleep. We have given her a small draught, you understand, to secure complete rest after the shock of the operation. My colleague and I will return here at 8 o'clock, and then there will probably be no reason why you should not speak to her. Meanwhile be confident; there is absolutely no cause for alarm."

With this reassuring statement they had perforce to rest content. The medical men were about to take their departure when Brett intervened.

"There is yet another patient who requires your attention, gentlemen," he said. "You will find him in Room No. 31. He is suffering from a broken arm and other injuries."

The doctors hurried off, and it was not long before they were able to make a satisfactory report concerning Dubois.

"The fracture of the ulna is a simple one," said the spokesman, "and will become all right in the ordinary course of nature. But what happened to the man's face?"

"He settled a light dispute with my friend here," said Brett, indicating Talbot, who was leaning with his head wearily resting on his hands. The accident to Edith had utterly unnerved her brother.

"Then all I can say," remarked the doctor, when he took his leave, "is that the settlement was complete. Whatever the debt may have been, it is paid in full!"

The Englishmen were now safe in the seclusion of a private room, so Brett resolved to arouse Talbot from the stupor which had settled upon him.

"Listen to me, Jack, he said. "You must pull yourself together. Don't forget you have an important trust to discharge. Our first duty is to ascertain whether or not the diamonds are intact."

He laid on the table the belt taken from Dubois, and lifted out its precious contents with careful exactness. The men crowded around. Even amidst the exciting events of the hour, the sight of the fateful stones, which had caused so much turmoil and bloodshed could not fail to be deeply interesting.

Predominant among them was the Imperial diamond, luminous, gigantic, awesome in its potentialities. Its size and known value rendered it one of the most remarkable objects in the world, whilst even in its present unfinished state the facets already cut by the workmen gave evidence to its brilliant purity.

Pulling himself together by an effort, Talbot advanced to the table and slowly counted the stones. There were fifty-one all told, and even the smallest of the collection was a diamond of great value.

"Yes," he said, "that is the correct number. I cannot be certain, but I believe they are the originals. The big one certainly is. It will be one of the happiest days of my life when I see the last of them."

"That day will arrive soon," remarked Brett quietly. "You and I, Mr. Winter, must sail on the Blue-Bell tonight for Marseilles. That is, if Mr. Daubeney is agreeable," he added, turning to that worthy gentleman, whose face was a trifle paler than it had been for years.

"I am at your service, gentlemen," he announced promptly.

"But what about Fairholme and the young lady," he went on, turning to Sir Hubert.

"I think I understand," replied the baronet. "Mr. Brett means that these wretched diamonds should pass officially out of the control of the British Government as early as possible."

The barrister nodded.

"That being so, no time should be lost. Edith, should all go well, will be compelled in any event to remain here for several days before she can be removed. You, Jack, and you, Mr. Brett, should you so desire, can easily return here from London, after having fulfilled the trust reposed in you."

"Then I only make one stipulation," put in Daubeney quickly. "The Blue-Bell will remain in Marseilles and bring you back."

His eagerness evoked a quiet smile all round, and it was generally agreed that this program should be followed. In the brief discussion which ensued, Mr. Winter explained his earlier movements. The detectives attached to the British Embassy in Paris told him of Dubois' journey to Marseilles.

Learning that Brett was staying at the Hotel du Louvre et de la Paix, he went straight there on his arrival, only to learn that the barrister and some friends had quitted Marseilles that day on a private yacht bound for Palermo. The local police filled in some of the details, but chance did the rest.

Going to the P. and O. office to book his passage to Messina on the Ganges, he heard of Gros Jean and the Turks, and then knew that he was on the right scent.

There was a touching meeting between Edith and the others that evening. She was naturally pale and weak, but her buoyant spirit triumphed over physical defects, and she made light of her injuries. Even Fairholme was restored to a state of sanity by his brief visit, a fact that was evidenced by his quiet enjoyment of a cigar when he walked down to the quay to witness the departure of the Blue-Bell.

Before leaving Palermo Brett had another interview with the Chief of Police, the result being that unobtrusive but effective means were taken to safeguard the different members of the gang which had caused so much personal suffering and diplomatic uneasiness.

The reception of the party in London may be detailed in a sentence. The Turkish Ambassador was specially instructed from Constantinople to take charge of the diamonds, and Talbot had the keen satisfaction of personally handing them over to the Sultan's representative, in the presence of his chief at the Foreign Office. The unlucky gems were forthwith taken back to their owner, and no doubt reporse at this moment in a special reliquary, together with other mementoes of the Prophet, for the project which led to their first visit to London was definitely abandoned.

Meanwhile daily telegrams from Palermo assured Talbot and Brett as to the continued progress of the fair sufferer, who had so nearly sacrificed her life in her devoted championship of her brother's cause.

At last a day came when the Blue-Bell again steamed into the harbor of Palermo, and the manner in which Fairholme shouted when he caught sight of Daubeney standing on the bridge was in itself sufficient indication that all had gone well during their absence.

The travelers were surprised and delighted to find Edith herself seated in a carriage with her uncle on the wharf. Were it not that she was pale, and her right arm was tightly strapped across her breast to prevent any movement of the injured shoulder, no one could have guessed that she had recently undergone such a terrible experience.

But Brett, delighted as he was to meet his friends again under such pleasant conditions, experienced the keenest sentiments of triumphant elation when he entered the apartment where Dubois was still confined under the watchful guard of two detectives.

"WORM HOLERS" VERY ACTIVE

Making Antiques Out of New Furniture for Americans.

From the York Sun.

Some American tourist who visits England next summer and is bent upon seeing the country in a way no fellow countryman has ever done may find in some spot which seems to have been for centuries remote from the rest of the world an old moss covered cottage. In a corner of one room he may be enraptured to behold a fine old Sheraton sideboard, which though well preserved, bears the marks of generations of usage. There, perhaps, is a bit of Chippendale or a piece of furniture that looks exactly as if it had been fashioned by the brothers Adam.

"How much?" the visitor may say, trying not to look as if he were after a bargain. The tenant of the cottage may hesitate, for one does not like to part easily from a bit of furniture that has been in the family since long before the grandfather's time. Still, one is poor, and times are hard. The American may gulp down his satisfaction at what seems a ridiculously low price for an antique, the money may be paid over, with enough to pay for its delivery by "goods van" at the office of an express company in London for shipment over here, and then during the remainder of his European tour the American may brag to every compatriot he meets about the wonderfully fine antique he picked up for a mere song in an out of the way place in Devonshire. "Nothing like finding these things for yourself," and so on.

In the day of our fathers it used to be possible to pick up antiques in this way. Here is some information on the subject as it stands today from John I. Griffiths, the American consul-general in London, who has been at the Wolcott. Mr. Griffiths was consul-general in Liverpool up to the time, a year ago last August, he was appointed to the London post. In speaking about antique furniture, so called, Mr. Griffiths was not referring particularly to England. He was only making some remarks about the manufacture in Europe of "antique" furniture, an industry that is not unknown in New York, which followed some comments upon the results of taking the tariff off works of art of certain kinds.

"As a result of the placing of pictures 20 years old or more on the free list, with artistic antiques which have an age of 100 years or more, the exports from London to this country last year of works of art of these two grades showed an increase over the preceding year of about $5,000,000," said Mr. Griffiths.

"As to paintings it is not difficult to establish their age, but concerning artistic antiques the situation is very different, or the reason that an article may be antique and still may lack artistic quality. Age alone is not sufficient to entitle an antique to free entry. On the other hand, the manufacture of antiques may be described as a growing industry in Europe. So skillfully is the reproduction done that the utmost care must be exercised in differentiating between the real and the sham antique.

The New Profession.

"To such an extent is this work of reproduction carried that a new profession has lately come into being on the other side whose members are known as worm holers. It is their business to make first class worm holes in new furniture. I call their business a profession and not a trade because it requires real artistic skill to make a worm hole. This carries out the illusion of age produced by treating new furniture by certain processes which are in a large measure a trade secret.

"Of course the question of free entry on works of art is determined at the port of entry in this country, but an affidavit must be made by the seller before a consular officer of the United States, giving the history of the article sold and all data which would tend to establish its age. The fact that this government has experts to pass upon the antiquity of articles shipped in this fashion protects the American buyer over here, but it does not protect the American who buys in Europe buys antiques cold there.

"In some places I am told that modern furniture which has been 'ripened' by the process to which I have referred is planted about in old, out of the way cottages, to which the footsteps of the interested traveler are directed ingeniously, just the sort of places where the untraveled, and even the traveled, might expect to stumble on a bit of valuable Chippendale or Sheraton or Adam.

"Everything in the cottage is arranged as a setting to this 'piece de resistance.' The dust underneath, perhaps, may appear not to have been removed for a generation. In the back, industrious weavers may have been encouraged to weave a luxurious cobweb between the sideboard and the wall. The illusion is so complete, and the comedy connected with it has been so carefully staged, that even the American with all his native shrewdness might be quite easily deceived.

THOS. INMAN, with [illegible] Rooms 25 & 26, Over [illegible] Pikes Peak.

YOU WILL NEVER OWN YOUR OWN HOME UNTIL YOU BUY ONE. It may sound funny, but it isn't the monthly bill of the landlord funnier? At the price East Colorado City lots are selling and the liberal payment plan granted all purchasers, there is no reason why you should not become a taxpayer and a property owner. Sounds big, don't it? But it sounds awfully good, and it really makes you bigger. You know it would please the wife to plan her new home, the place the family would call home. Really, ain't you a little enthused over the prospects? Now, take a day, or wife call and let us show you over the property and tell you all the details as to [illegible].

Edward Johnson, a florist and T. J. Fair, former captain of police and later street superintendent, are the latest to take out nomination petitions for the position of commissioner. They secured them at the city clerk's office yesterday.

Yesterday A. J. Lawton, R. M. Cannon, H. S. Fairchild and A. M. Holden filed their papers with the city clerk. Today is the last day for filing. This makes ten who have so far complied with all requirements to get their names before the people at the coming election. This leaves six candidates who have still to file their petitions.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. All that is needed to afford relief is the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. Give it a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Sold by all dealers.

DENVER AUTO STOLEN

The sheriff's office and the local police have been notified to be on the lookout for an automobile stolen in Denver Sunday night, and supposed to be on its way here. The machine is an Overland torpedo two-passenger type, with dark blue body and license No. 1620. It has top, windshield and a speedometer.

Forced to Leave Home.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. "It cured me of lung trouble," writes W. R. Nelson, of Calamine, Ark., "when all else failed, and I gained 47 pounds in weight. Its surely the king of all cough and lung cures." Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, Asthma, Croup—all Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

A device to be connected with an ordinary telephone line with which handwriting may be transmitted to distant points has been perfected in England.

Dr. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK WOMEN.

ALL BELLS LOOK ALIKE

From the Washington Star.

He had on one of those quiet, complacent inebriations that are all done up in an aura of contentment, whatever that may be. And while in that attitude of peace with all the world at large and people about him in particular he boarded an F and G street car.

The man was well dressed and but for the mild, good natured blink of his eyes and the way his derby hat persisted in sitting over on his head like a white-caterine [illegible] maybe no one would have known just how many times he had ordered "the same" that day.

By and by, as the car approached a crossing, he reached up and pressed the little button behind him. The conductor immediately signaled to the motorman to stop, and the car slowed up.

But neither the inebriate nor anybody else made any move to get off. Then the well-contented passenger rang again, and once more the car stopped. But still he made not the slightest move.

The conductor was watching then and he caught the pickled passenger in the act of pressing the little push button.

"Here! That you ringin' that bell?" he demanded.

"Sure!" replied the passenger without looking up. "Bring me a nice little rye highball."

HUSKY DOGS OF LABRADOR

From the Wide World.

All along the coast at every Eskimo encampment and about the cabins of the liveyeres are numbers of husky dogs. In winter these animals pull the sledges and form the sole means of travel or communication from settlement to settlement. During the summer they are not fed by their owners, but are left to seek their sustenance as best they can. Hence the hungry brutes range the land near the coast and add to the problems of Labrador, as they permit no creature to live that they can pull down. If a horse were to be turned out to grass over night, only its bare bones would be found in the morning. Even to human beings they are sometimes dangerous when night begins to fall, and on occasion, when hard driven by hunger, they have been known to attack children in the day. Considering they are hardly ever fed in the summer, one only wonders that there are not more ill deeds to set to their account.

An automobile testing plant has been installed by the University of Kentucky for use in research work on the subject of power plant efficiency.
